NBC's 'Council of Dads' pulls together for an ill friend's family

Some friends promise to be there for you and yours when times get tough. And then, there's the "Council of Dads."

Premiering Tuesday, March 10, the NBC drama unites several close friends of a cancer patient (Tom Everett Scott) to give ample emotional support to the man's family. Played by Clive Standen ("Vikings"), J. August Richards ("Angel") and Michael O'Neill ("The West Wing"), the "council" checks in regularly - while also trying to keep their own lives in check – on those including the matriarch (Sarah Wayne Callies, "The Walking Dead") who's expecting another child.

Inspired by Bruce Feiler's samenamed book, "Council of Dads" is a departure for executive producer Jerry Bruckheimer, traditionally a crimeshow specialist ("CSI: Crime Scene Investigation," "Without a Trace"). "It's an immediate idea that I think that we've all dealt with," maintains Tony Phelan, also an executive producer of the new series along with his wife and creative partner, Joan Rater. "We have very similar conversations where she will say to me, 'If I die, these are the approved women that you can have come anywhere near our children."'

Co-star O'Neill allows that in some ways, "Council of Dads" echoes "This Is Us," which it will follow immediately

"Black Monday" (Showtime — season premiere, March 15)

on the aftermath of the October 1987 stock market crash and finds Dawn (Regina Hall) and Blair (Andrew Rannells) in charge and constantly looking over their shoulders for Mo (Don Cheadle) and Keith (Paul Scheer), who themselves are on the run. As for who will go down for the crash, that remains to be seen. Guest stars in this round include Tuc Watkins

Patrick Fabian ("Better Call Saul").

Season 2 of this comedy series focuses for its first several weeks. "I think there was an appetite there for that drama," he reflects, "and I think they just pulled the covers back and said, 'Here you are.' I love that they were the prow of the ship, and I'm very happy to go into harbor behind them - but that appetite has been there for us as well, I think, so we'll just try to honor it."

Callies notes that her father-in-law succumbed to cancer "between shooting the pilot and the series, which was an interesting kind of thing to navigate. I think we've all had the experience of recognizing that your family and your blood ... are not the same thing, by any means. They're the people who stand up for you, right? They're the people who say, 'I'm going to make you feel safe in the world. And I'm going to make myself a better person because you deserve that from me.' That's family, I think."

Indeed, Richards says "the message" that "Council of Dads" conveys "really hits me in a place where I live, which is that family is not limited to race, sexual orientation, not even genetics. Your capacity to love is what makes your family. I was so moved by that, I just was like, 'If I could be a part of this show that is part of something that I would really love to say to the world, then I would be blessed.' And I am.'

is the stuff of drama, consider that its story also did much to fuel a cable series before the movie was released. It's the tale of the sexual harassment at Fox News that ultimately deposed the late Roger Ailes as the chief of the organization ... and though he's played by the ever-excellent John Lithgow, this is even more the story of female employees who fought back, some of them very visible Fox stars. One was Megyn Kelly, and it is absolutely astonishing how much Charlize Theron looks like Kelly here. It's not just the hairstyle (which won an Oscar, along with the makeup) or the posture, it's a matter of capturing everything about her to perfection. Nicole Kidman plays former morning-show co-anchor Gretchen Carlson, and Margot Robbie has a composite character based on several other Fox News employees who were in Ailes' orbit. It's a strong cast, indeed, also with Allison Janney, Kate McKinnon ("Saturday Night Live") and Malcolm McDowell - but Theron is the member whose work here will long be remembered. DVD extras: seven "making-of" documentaries.  (R: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"CHARLIE'S ANGELS"

The hit 1970s series about female detectives has had a strong afterlife, with movie versions, a television reboot and this feature-film take on the premise directed by Elizabeth Banks ... who also wrote the script. This time, Kristen Stewart, Naomi Scott and

"The Plot Against America" (HBO — series pre-miere, March 16)

From writers/creators David Simon ("The Wire") and Ed Burns ("The Brothers McMullen") comes this six-episode alternate history drama series that imagines a divided United States being overrun by fascism and anti-semitism after aviation hero Charles indbergh defeate Erenklin D. Descenth in the 1010 Lindbergh defeats Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1940 presidential election. The solid cast is led by Winona Ryder ("Stranger Things"), Morgan Spector ("Home-

Ella Balinska play the trio now supervised for unseen boss Charlie by several Bosleys - one of them portrayed by Banks herself – and determined to keep a technological innovation from falling into the wrong hands. Patrick Stewart also appears, in a role he filmed prior to his return as Picard of "Star Trek" lore, as do Djimon Hounsou and Sam Claflin. The late Leonard Goldberg, who produced the original show with Aaron Spelling, was an executive producer here (along with Drew Barrymore, a star and producer of the first two movies). DVD extras: four "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; outtakes; music video.  (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, On Demand and 4K Ultra HD)

"UNCUT GEMS"

He'd made the occasional stab at drama earlier, but Adam Sandler surprised many people with his widely acclaimed performance in siblings Josh and Benny Safdie's tale - executiveproduced by Martin Scorsese – about a jeweler in New York's famed Diamond District who intends to use a rare opal to pay off his outstanding gambling debts by using it to make a very big bet. Things don't work out guite as planned, though, leaving the mean in great personal jeopardy as related complications mount. Newcomer Julia Fox is quite impressive with the heavy lifting she has to do opposite land"), Zoe Kazan ("Ruby Sparks") and John Turturro ("The Night Of").

"Brockmire" (IFC — season premiere, March

18) The fourth and final season of this acclaimed comedy series moves 15 years into the future from the events of Season 3 with legendary play-by-play man Jim Brockmire (Hank Azaria) ascended to the office of commissioner of baseball, where he finds himself tasked with saving the game he loves as the world around him descends into chaos. He also must salvage his relationship with newfound daughter Beth (Reina Hardesty) and rekindle his romance with girl-friend/ex-boss Jules (Amanda Peet).

Sandler; Lakeith Stanfield, Kevin Garnett, Idina Menzel, Eric Bogosian and Judd Hirsch also appear, but in the end, this surely is Sandler's show. DVD extra: "making-of" documentary.  (R: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"SPIES IN DISGUISE"

Will Smith and latest screen "Spider-Man" Tom Holland voice the title operatives who have to team up to save the world, despite their very approaches to work and life, in this animated fantasy-comedy. Smith speaks the words of an espionage veteran while Holland supplies the vocals for a scientist who has quite a situation on his hands when an experiment transforms his new partner into a pigeon - a form that's retained as the duo tries to evade pursuers who believe them to be traitors. There's plenty of variety in a voice cast that also includes Reba McEntire, Ben Mendelsohn ("The Outsider"), Rachel Brosnahan ("The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel"), Rashida Jones, Karen Gillan (of the recent "Jumanji" movies) and DJ Khaled. If the action seems particularly zippy here, it's worth noting that the picture comes from the same production team that made the Oscar-winning "Ford v Ferrari."  (PG: AS, V) (Also on Bluray and 4K Ultra HD)

player profile BY GEORGE DICKIE Torres the key to Yanks' infield defense in 2020

If the New York Yankees are to fulfill their annually stated goal of winning a World Series, Gleyber Torres will need to take a step forward. Defensively, that is.

Indeed, with Didi Gregorius' free-agent defection to the Phillies over the winter, the Bombers' rising 23-year-old superstar will move to his natural position of shortstop for the 2020 season, where his glove play figures to improve, especially now that he's playing only one position.

In splitting time between second base and shortstop in 2019 thanks to Gregorius' nearly season-long injury, his numbers at short were superior: 11 errors (19th-most in MLB) and one defensive run saved (14th-most) in 659.2 innings. That's compared to his stats at the pivot of nine errors (eighth-most) and minus-7 runs saved (26th-most) in 547.1 innings. Add in the fact that three-time Gold Glover DJ LeMahieu moves over to second, and it means stronger up-the-middle defense in The Bronx in 2020.

Of course, Torres' offense is not in question. Through two full seasons in the majors, the Venezuela native has positively raked, bashing 62 home runs (including 39 last year) and driving in 167 runs while batting .275 with an on-base percentage of .338 and an OPS of .849. He'll be part of a power-laden Yankee lineup that also includes Aaron Judge, Giancarlo Stanton, Brett Gardner, Gary Sanchez and LeMahieu, the backbone of a team that many favor to win it all in 2020.

Torres and the Yankees can be seen in action Wednesday, March 11, when they take on the Miami Marlins in a preseason game airing on MLB Network from Jupiter, Fla.

BY GEORGE DICKIE

It's all about the timing on 'Spring Baking Championship'

Like just about anything else in life, timing is everything when it comes to baking.

Indeed, it's one of the most common mistakes made in culinary competition series, and it's also a frequent bugaboo for contestants on Food Network's "Spring Baking Championship."

"The biggest mistake is poor time management, is really what it is," explains series host Clinton Kelly. "It's like, 'Oh, my cake is still hot out of the oven and now I can't frost it because the frosting is melting.' Like it's that kind of stuff.

"And that's where the behind-the-scenes talking to the producers comes into play," he continues, "because if you can't bake while you are speaking – and every time a producer comes over, you have to sort of put what you're doing down and talk to the producer – you lose track of time really fast. So you have got to be able to talk and bake simultaneously, and if you can't manage that, then your timing gets screwed up every time."

Premiering Monday, March 9, the fifth season brings in a fresh crop of 11 bakers to vie in two rounds per episode of spring-themed baking challenges designed to test the limits of their skill, imagination and outside-the-box thinking, as set forth by host Kelly. The winner – as determined by judges Nancy Fuller, Duff Goldman and Lorraine Pascale – earns a spot in the double-episode finale on April 27 and a chance to win a $25,000 grand prize.

Among the challenges they'll be tasked with is making a fruits-of-spring tart, decorating a faultline cake to depict spring transformations, and preparing desserts themed to outdoor activities with dogs.

Taking on such challenges in front of TV cameras and lights, with a producer constantly peppering them with questions – plus having to work with unfamiliar ingredients – can take a mental toll on the bakers, and Kelly says it sometimes shows up in the competition.

"I think we shot over the course of 2 ½ weeks, which is an intense period, not just for me," he says. "That was pretty long for me but the bakers ... wow. Sometimes I wonder if these guys and gals knew what they were getting into when they signed up for it. It's so much work."

"There were a couple of decorative ingredients that people hadn't used before," Kelly continues, "and I remember one woman got pretty pissed off because she didn't know how to use it. It's one of these ingredients that you have to heat up to an almost dangerous temperature. Isomalt, that's what it was, isomalt. There was a meltdown over isomalt."
