The 'Space Force' is with Netflix in Carell/Daniels comedy

After their success on the 2005-13 NBC sitcom "The Office," Greg Daniels and Steve Carell knew they wanted to work together again but didn't know on what. Then faster than you can say, "ripped from the headlines," "Space Force" was born.

Inspired by the recently created branch of the U.S. military and premiering Friday, May 29, on Netflix, the half-hour workplace comedy from co-creators Daniels and Carell places the latter in the starring role of Gen. Mark Naird, an Air Force lifer who finds himself out of his element when he's chosen to head up the nascent agency. Their goal: American boots on the moon by 2024.

Under his command at a remote Colorado base are a colorful cast of characters, among them Mallory (John Malkovich, "Bird Box"), a scientist charged with advising his boss what is and isn't possible; F. Tony Scarapiducci (Ben Schwartz, "House of Lies"), Naird's overeager media relations guru; Brad Gregory (Don Lake, "Corner Gas: The Movie"), Naird's incompetent assistant; and Captain Ali (Tawny Newsome, "Brockmire"), a prospective 'Spaceman."

At home, Mark must deal with his teenage daughter Erin (Diana Silvers, "Ma"), who gets under her father's skin by dating Russian liaison Yuri/Bobby (Russian pop star Alex Sparrow).

'Space Force" and "The Office" may share some of the same creative minds but that is where viewers might find the similarities ending. The comedy here is much broader than on "The Office," which often mined uncomfortable situations for laughs, and Naird, a principled though inflexible leader, is the polar opposite of Dunder Mifflin's "cool boss" Michael Scott.

Though it's been seven years, Daniels was overjoyed to be writing again for his old friend and colleague.

"It's really great fun," he says. "I mean, it's very easy for me to write for him because of all the practice and because we're the same age and you know, we both grew up in the Northeast. .. I think we have a similar sensibility and at this point I think we have a lot of respect for each other, so even if he has a suggestion that I don't understand, I know that it's going to be good and I can trust it. So that makes it easier to work with people."

Schwartz, a writer, actor, comic and producer with a strong background in improvisation, was also thrilled to be working with Carell and Daniels, whose work he has admired over the years. For Scarapiducci - given the profane moniker "F... Tony" on the show - he envisioned a borderline competent media man and needy individual who constantly hungers for the approval of his superiors.

"My character looks at Steve's character as the father he really wants to get love from, to get recognition from, and Steve never gives it to him," he explains. "... So one of the little secrets or one of the little things I have throughout the series is I so desperately want to impress Mark Naird and get his anything, get his respect because he rarely gives it.

'So there are a couple of moments in the show where I do something correct, which is wonderful, and you get to kind of see me relish in that and see that I'm actually doing something and I'm worthwhile. So I think deep down, this guy's probably a sad guy."

It can be dicey to update a horror classic, and that fact is what makes this effort such a modest triumph. While fully acknowledging the original H.G. Wells story and earlier screen versions, it modernizes the tale in an extremely effective way ... thanks in no small part to a superb performance by Elisabeth Moss ("The Handmaid's Tale," "Mad Men") as a victim of an abusive relationship. She deals with a mad man of a different kind here, since her character continues to be victimized after her abuser apparently is gone. him vengefully doing it – but she knows he's there. It's not fair to spoil the twists here, but as he's done with the "Saw" and "Insidious" series, writer-director Leigh Whannell takes conventions of the genre and gives them fresh spins. And in this MeToo era, the approach is especially relevant and unnerving. Aldis Hodge, Storm Reid ("Don't Let Go") and Harriet Dyer also appear. DVD extras: four "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by Whannell; deleted scenes. *** (R: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD and On Demand)

"Love, Victor: Season 1" (Hulu — series premiere, June 19)

Based in the same world as the 2018 feature film "Love, Simon," this half-hour comedy series follows the journey of Victor (Michael Cimino, "Annabelle Comes Home"), new to his high school, as he struggles with challenges at home and his sexual orientation, which prompt him to reach out to Simon when things get too overwhelming. Ana Ortiz, James Martinez, Isabella Ferreira and newcomer Mateo Fernandez also star.

Director Michael Cimino's saga also provided Meryl Streep with a major step toward movie stardom, and the Stanley Myers music score is deeply affecting. The many extras include new interviews with Savage and producer Michael Deeley, and an audio commentary featuring an indispensable member of the creative team here, cinematographer Vilmos Zsigmond. **** (R: AS, P, V)

"SCORSESE SHORTS"

Everyone starts somewhere, and that also goes for one of the most esteemed filmmakers still working. This Criterion Collection offering compiles five early projects of Martin Scorsese, dating back to his time as a New York University student up to the mid-1970s, when he was making his professional breakthrough. "Italianamerican" is a profile of his parents ... and it wouldn't be the last time he worked with his mother Catherine, who would make a memorable appearance years later in his classic "Goodfellas." The other attractions here are "American Boy," "The Big Shave," "It's Not Just You,

"Outcry" (Showtime — series premiere, July 5) Emmy-winning filmmaker Pat Kondelis directed and produced this new docuseries, which revolves around the controversial conviction of Texas high school football star Greg Kelley on sexual assault charges. Going into his senior year in his hometown of Leander, Kelley seemed headed for great things, until he was arrested and subsequently convicted of the "super aggravated sexual assault" of a four-year-old boy. Sentenced to 25 years in prison without the possibility of parole, Kelley eventually found a groundswell of support in his polarized community.

Murray!" and "What's a Nice Girl Like You Doing in a Place Like This?," and all of them reflect themes that would become familiar elements of better-known Scorsese ventures. The extras include then-and-now interviews with the director. *** (Not rated: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray)

"ESCAPE FROM L.A.: COLLECTOR'S EDITION"

Having a bigger budget for this 1996 sequel took director John Carpenter away a bit from the ragtag fun of "Escape From New York," but a new Blu-ray edition of the further adventure of antihero Snake Plissken (again played by a dialoguehissing Kurt Russell) still has its moments. After a massive earthquake devastates Los Angeles – leaving it walled off, just as Manhattan was in the first movie - Snake is sent into the ruins to recover a potentially destructive device that's in the custody of the president's (Cliff Robertson) rebellious daughter (A.J. Langer, "My So-Called Life") and her co-conspirator (Georges Corraface). New interviews with co-stars including Stacy Keach, Bruce Campbell and Peter Jason are among the extras here; the cast also boasts Steve Buscemi, Peter Fonda, Valeria Golino ("Rain Man") and Pam Grier. *** (R: AS, P, V)

Pagenaud duels Rossi in 2019 Indy 500

Motorheads left high and dry by the absence of racing would do well to tune it to NBC on Sunday, May 24, for a replay of one of the most exciting races in recent memory.

A year ago in the Indianapolis 500, Simon Pagenaud and Alexander Rossi engaged in a duel for the ages, trading the lead five times over the final 14 laps following a restart. With three laps to go, Rossi appeared to be pulling away but Pagenaud wasn't done.

He executed a pass with 1 1/2 laps left and managed to hold off a hard charging Rossi to win the race by .2 seconds.

The victory gave the 34-year-old Frenchman not only his first win in the "Great American Race," but also a sweep of Indy, having won the Grand Prix of Indianapolis two weeks earlier. It also marked the 18th Indy 500 win for Team Penske.

"It's hard to believe right now ...," he said after taking the winner's traditional swig of milk in Victory Lane. "It's been such an intense race. The car was just on rails."

The victory would also give Pagenaud a short-lived lead in the IndyCar Series championship, one that he would relinquish to teammate Josef Newgarden the following race in Detroit.

Pagenaud would earn one more win in 2019, at the Honda Indy Toronto in July, to give him three for the season, to go along with four podium finishes and three pole positions as he finished as series runner up to Newgarden.

But it is his victory at Indy that he will remember for a lifetime and will put his name down forever in racing history.

Get grillin' for the holiday with tips from Food Network

Welcome to Memorial Day weekend, a time when many are getting out the grill and putting food to flame for the first time this year.

In the past, that likely meant for parties and get-togethers though that may or may not be in the cards in 2020. Regardless, you'll want to have a few new tricks up your sleeve when the burners or briquets ignite and Food Network has several ideas in programming airing Sunday, May 24. So fire up the flat-screen and the grill and take in these suggestions.

Giada De Laurentiis does it Italian style with her "Tuscan Barbecue Party" bright and early on "Giada Entertains," in which she combines a California barbecue vibe with an Italian touch to create a grilled chicken involtini, buttery herbed potatoes, a mushroom and grape crostini and spiked Arnold Palmers. Yes, it's early for that but it is, after all, five o'clock somewhere.

Then on "Valerie's Home Cooking," Valerie Bertinelli hosts a beginning-ofthe-summer party complete with grilled vegetables with avocado yogurt dip, a tapenade aioli dip, grilled shrimp salsa and skirt steak with chermoula, all washed down with a hibiscus and lavender prosecco punch. Outdoor cooking at its finest.

She's at it again later that morning in a new "Home Cooking" episode titled "Take Me Out to the Ballgame," whipping up a baseball-themed spread that features grilled bratwurst with sauerkraut, along with grilled corn on the cob, a caramel popcorn and nut mix and baseball mitt treats.

At midday, it's Kardea Brown's turn to get in the act on "Delicious Miss Brown," where she heads to the backyard to prepare pimento cheese-stuffed burgers and grilled sea island wings with Southern pickles and okra to have on the side. And for dessert, take a shot at her grilled peach crumble. Yum.

In early afternoon, it's "Cocktail Hour" in a so-named episode of "Guy's Ranch Kitchen," which finds host Guy Fieri and chef friends making finger foods, hors d'oeuvres and appetizers for cocktail hour at the ranch. The menu includes cones of tender skirt steak with a chimichurri sauce and potato frites, crunchy crab croquettes and mushrooms stuffed with sweet and spicy plantains and chorizo and a crispy duck breast with crostini. And for drinks, there is a Rye Manhattan and a version of a mule with lemon-ginger kombucha and vodka.

And on "The Kitchen," Katie Lee shows how to make her Mediterranean grilled chicken and eggplant, while Jeff Mauro prepares his Thai meatballs and zucchini noodles.

TIPS FOR BUYERS IN THE COVID-19 REAL ESTATE MARKET

ANTICIPATE A SMALLER POOL OF HOMES FOR SALE. NEW LISTINGS PLUMMETED 43.1% NATIONWIDE BY THE END OF APRIL AND THE TOTAL NUMBER OF AVAILABLE HOMES FOR SALE WAS ALREADY LOW.

EXPECT TO NEED MORE PRE-QUALIFICATION DOCUMENTATION BEFORE THE HOME BUYING PROCESS BEGINS. SELLERS WANT TO MAKE SURE YOU ARE A SERIOUS BUYER BEFORE THEY ALLOW YOU INTO THEIR HOMES.

TRY NOT TO INCLUDE CHILDREN AND OTHER FAMILY MEMBERS WHEN SCHEDULING APPOINTMENTS. MANY SELLERS ARE ANXIOUS ABOUT HAVING PEOPLE IN THEIR HOMES, SO ONLY KEY DECISION MAKERS SHOULD ATTEND SHOWINGS.

BE PATIENT, YOU MIGHT ENCOUNTER MORTGAGE APPROVAL DELAYS AND CHANGES TO THE APPRAISAL, INSPECTION, AND CLOSING PROCESS.

BENEFIT FROM LOWER INTEREST RATES. THIRTY-YEAR MORTGAGE RATES FELL TO AN ALL TIME LOW AT THE END OF APRIL.
