Phineas and Ferb make a comeback in new, animated Disney+ movie

The return of Phineas and Ferb is out of this world. Literally.

The popular, animated musical-comedy series that ran on Disney Channel for four seasons (and later on Disney XD) makes a temporary comeback with the new "Phineas and Ferb The Movie: Candace Against the Universe," which Disney+ begins streaming Friday, Aug. 28. The title stepbrothers embark on a mission to rescue their sister, who's been kidnapped by aliens ... and whisked off to a world she likes so much, she has little interest in being "saved," very particularly by Phineas and Ferb.

Vincent Martella, who supplies the voice of Phineas, believes interest in continuing the franchise was stoked when the characters made a crossover appearance on "Milo Murphy's Law." He adds, "I've seen the lathe presence it has on social media, and it's stayed in the consciousness of people's minds. The 'Milo' crossover kind of gave me hope that people were still excited about the

While much of the original voice cast is back – also including Ashley Tisdale as Candace, Caroline Rhea as the family matriarch, and series creators and executive producers Dan Povenmire and Jeff "Swampy" Marsh as Dr. Heinz Doofenshmirtz and Major Monogram there's a new Ferb: David Errigo Jr. succeeds Thomas Sangster. Guest voices include Wayne Brady, Diedrich Bader ("American Housewife") and Thomas Middleditch ("Silicon Valley").

"I started playing Phineas when I was 13 and now, I'm 27," Martella reflects, "so to be able to have this character in my life for this long has meant so much to me. Having all of the characters back with this really exciting new story, that's so special. And recording the ADR (doing dialogue dubbing) and all the music, it was really like it used to feel. It was a challenge being on the show, learning so much about voice acting and animation."

Martella typically records his lines individually, which he says helped as the onset of the coronavirus pandemic caused production of "Phineas and Ferb The Movie: Candace Against the Universe" to be completed remotely from many different

All the existing "Phineas and Ferb" episodes are available on Disney+, and Martella likes that they have that still relatively new streaming outlet. He also has appeared on such live-action series as "The Walking Dead" and "Everybody Hates Chris," and though people recognize him by voice "occasionally," he maintains it doesn't happen that often.

With Phineas' voice being a lot younger and higher," Martella reasons, "that doesn't happen as often as people just knowing me from my career and having seen me on something else ... but it has happened a couple of times. Either way, if it means people have enjoyed what I do, that's great."

"WASHINGTON"

Before he became America's first president, George Washington built his reputation on the battlefield, and this profile of him – originally televised as a three-part miniseries by History, with noted historian Doris Kearns Goodwin among the project's executive producers – traces those early years of his growth as a military man and then a politician, Jeff Daniels narrates the profile, which casts Nicholas Rowe ("The Crown") in the title role as Washington makes a move toward leaving public service for an early retirement and a quiet life as a farmer. Of course, as fate would have it, it didn't work out that way. James Robinson (:Outlander") and Nicholas Audsley ("Masterpiece: Victoria") co-star respectively as Alexander Hamilton and Thomas Jefferson.  (Not rated: AS. V)

"THE KING OF STATEN ISLAND"

This showcase for "Saturday Night Live's" Pete Davidson is one of the movies that diverted directly to On Demand, due to the coronavirus pandemic, after being planned for a theatrical release. Directed by Judd Apatow ("The 40-Year-Old Virgin"), the seriocomic tale casts Davidson as a man who's remained in a childlike state over the many years since his firefighter father's death. It takes his mother (Marisa Tomei) dating another fireman (Bill Burr) to shake him out of that state and possibly fulfill his dreams ... which include becoming a tattoo artist. Steve Buscemi, Maude Apatow (a daughter of the director) and Bel Powley ("The Morning Show") also appear. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; 14 (yes, 14) "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by Davidson and Apatow; deleted scenes; outtakes; alternate endings; "Line-O-Rama."  (R: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

In Focus

"A Wilderness of Error" (FX — series premiere, Sept. 25)

Based on a bestselling book of the same title by filmmaker and author Errol Morris, this new five-part true-crime docuseries from Emmy-winning producer Marc Smerling revisits one of the most noteworthy crimes of the latter 20th century: the 1970 murders of Army surgeon Jeffrey MacDonald's wife and two young daughters. MacDonald steadfastly insisted the killings were committed by hippies inspired by Charles Manson, but he was convicted of the murders himself and is serving a life sentence.

"DEEP BLUE SEA 3"

As with the first sequel to the original shark thriller, this follow-up has bypassed the theatrical market to go straight to home video for its debut. The plot will seem familiar to anyone who knows either of the first two films, since it again deals with genetically enhanced sharks – this time being studied by a scientist (Tania Raymonde, "Lost") who's interested in the effects of climate change on them. Her mission is disrupted by the arrival of an exflame (Nathaniel Buzolic, "The Originals"), a marine biologist who has his own purpose for surveying the sharks. Emerson Brooks ("The Last Ship") also stars.  (R: P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"MASTERPIECE MYSTERY: ENDEAVOUR, SEASON 7"

In the same week that its three-episode run ends on PBS, the latest round of the series about the young Inspector Morse (portrayed by Shaun Evans) arrives on home video. Evans also directed the first episode, which finds Morse in Venice for the New Year's holiday as 1970 arrives. It's not long before he returns to Oxford, where he rejoins longtime police-detective colleague Fred Thursday (Roger Allam) on a murder probe. The other cases involve a battle between gangs and a supposed accident at a college. The "Endeavour" tales won't stop

"iHeartRadio Music Festival Night 1" (The CW — new special, Sept. 27)

The iHeartRadio Musical Festival marks its 10th anniversary in unprecedented fashion as a two-day virtual mega-concert event, with remote performances filmed on stages in Los Angeles and Nashville, in front of a virtual audience that includes a "fan wall" of iHeartRadio listeners. This two-night special, which concludes Monday, Sept. 28, includes performances by BTS, Coldplay, Kane Brown with special guest Khalid, Keith Urban, Migos, Miley Cyrus, Thomas Rhett, Usher and several others. Ryan Seacrest is the host.

here, since the show has been renewed for an eighth season; Abigail Thaw – whose father, John Thaw, played television's original Inspector Morse – continues as a regular cast member.  (Not rated: AS, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"CHICAGO FIRE: SEASON EIGHT"

Though executive producer Dick Wolf's NBC drama didn't get to finish its eighth year fully - three episodes remained to be completed when the coronavirus pandemic shut down on-location production - it still packed a lot, as usual, into the 20 it had. The season begins with the Firehouse 51 crew suffering a tragic loss in the factory blaze that ended the previous year's stories, and the victim's replacement (played by Alberto Rosende) stirs mixed emotions with his apparent recklessness. A crossover episode with "Chicago Med" and "Chicago P.D." involves a disease that ravages the city, and former cast regular Monica Raymund makes a guest appearance as her character Dawson surprises Casey (Jesse Spencer) with her return to Chicago. Taylor Kinney, Eamonn Walker, David Eigenberg, Kara Killmer, Chrotian Stolte, Joe Minoso, Miranda Rae Mayo and (apparently in her farewell round, per reports) Annie Ilonzeh also star. $\star\star\star$ (Not rated: AS, P, V)

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Through six races, the 40-year-old New Zealander has a stranglehold on the series' standings, holding a 49-point advantage over second-place driver Simon Pagenaud.

And he's been tough from the get-go, winning the season's first three races at Texas, in the Grand Prix of Indianapolis and in Race 1 at Road America. After that came his worst performance, a 12th-place finish in Race 2 of the Road America doubleheader, followed by second- and fifth-place finishes in the Iowa doubleheader.

So as he heads into IndyCar's showcase event, the Indianapolis 500, which airs Sunday, Aug. 23, on NBC, all appears primed for another stellar performance and on course to bag his sixth IndyCar title.

Of course, a victory on the 2.5-mile quad-oval would only add to his seemingly insurmountable lead and be yet another laurel in a banner season and career. He's won this race once before, in 2008, and of course he dominated on the road course here in July, when he took the lead in the middle of the race and maintained it all the way to the checkered flag.

He'll be challenged in Sunday's "Great American Race" by a field including past champs Pagenaud, Josef Newgarden, Will Power, Helio Castroneves, Takuma Sato, Ryan Hunter-Reay and Tony Kanaan in his final Indy appearance as a series regular.

A good time to be had with 'Bottomless Brunch at Colman's'

Colman Domingo has a thing for curated experiences.

As a former longtime bartender and restaurant worker, the actor, director and writer best known for roles in "Fear the Walking Dead" and "Zola" likes to have the food, drink, people and general atmosphere to work together to create experiences that his guests will remember.

Which is what he endeavors to do on his web series "Bottomless Brunch at Colman's," which streams Sundays on "The Walking Dead" YouTube channel and AMC.com.
Filmed remotely from his home in Los Angeles, Domingo invites in celebrity guests via video chat to partake in food, drink and conversation, sending them the ingredients for a cocktail – which they'll mix on camera – ask them to make something delicious for breakfast/lunch and talk to them about their life today in the era of the pandemic.

The idea came from a show Domingo had already been developing for AMC about cocktail culture that was then expedited and adapted to life during social distancing.

"I think that's the moment we're all missing right now ...," he explains. "So I'm always having people over to the house and I thought, 'Well, we can send them virtual packages, we can send them packages of mixers to make the cocktail and we can have a conversation and get to know each other and invite the audience online. ... It was more of the case of I think this responds to the moment and it's a bit of entertainment and fun and inspiration that I think we can put out right now."

The 20-minute episodes are very lighthearted and can get downright hilarious when the celebs attempt with varying degrees of success to mix the drinks. In the first round of six installments, actors such as Anika Noni Rose, Jay Ellis, Niecy Nash, Riley Keough, Nicholas Braun and Common have tried their hand at video mixology. The new batch begins with actors Brett Gelman, Alycia Debnam-Carey and Kim Dickens sipping a Bulleit Bourbon black Manhattan. The shows continue each week with various food and drink pairings.

All guests are friends of Domingo.

"I wanted to create a show that was not necessarily about promoting anything," he says. "I'm very much of the old school, Dick Cavett aficionado of interviewing style. I like the idea of bringing a guest on and getting to know them in a way that no one else knows them."

"Even pairing people, that's even curated, the way I pair people," he continues. "So, 'Oh, these are people who may not know each other and I want them to get to know each other because I feel like they'll become friends. Like Niecy Nash and Mo Collins. ... I want people who have actually been in my home. I want people that I know will engage with audiences in a different way and show a different part of themselves, so no one's on a press tour. It's interesting for me to ... take you to their homes."

SUMMER SELLER'S MARKET HEATS UP IN PONTE VEDRA BEACH

REAL ESTATE IS ALWAYS CHANGING AND 2020 HAS HAD ITS FAIR SHARE OF UPS AND DOWNS! RECENT TRENDS IN PONTE VEDRA BEACH REAL ESTATE INDICATE THAT WE ENTERED A "SELLER'S MARKET" AT THE END OF LAST YEAR AND THIS HAS INTENSIFIED THROUGH 2020. NO MATTER IF YOU'RE BUYING OR SELLING, THE LISA BARTON TEAM CAN HELP YOU SUCCESSFULLY NAVIGATE THE CURRENT MARKET CONDITIONS.

WHAT IS A SELLER'S MARKET?

- Months' supply refers to the number of months it would take for the current inventory of homes on the market to sell given the current sales pace. Historically, six months of supply is considered a "balanced market."
- In the Ponte Vedra Beach market, we had under 4 months of supply by the end of July. The Lisa Barton Team sees this trend continuing into the Fall.

WHAT CAN HELP YOU AS A SELLER?

- The timing can work in your favor! In a seller's market, homes typically sell faster and for more money.
- With the increased competition for homes, the team is seeing more offers come in from buyers with minimal conditions of purchase.
- Don't oversell your expectations! The Lisa Barton Team will help you set a realistic listing price to get your home sold in the timeframe you want.
- Compare offers carefully. The highest offer may not always be the strongest offer depending on the contingencies, timing, etc.

WHAT SHOULD BUYERS KNOW IN A SELLER'S MARKET?

- Be prepared to act quickly! There will be a lot of competition. Come prequalified for a loan and know what your "must have" home features are.
- Don't overpay! It may seem worth it at the time but overpaying for a home can lead to appraisal issues and other problems down the line. The Lisa Barton Team can guide you on obtaining fair pricing in this dynamic market.
- Keep your offer straightforward and without too many restrictions for the seller. In a multiple offer situation, the seller will likely select the less complex path forward.
