Space may not be the final frontier for Hilary Swank, but it certainly is her next one.

The two-time Oscar winner heads the cast as her character leads a mission to Mars in "Away," a Netflix drama series that begins streaming Friday, Sept. 4. Crossing the cosmos with an international crew means being away from her husband ("The Good Wife" alum Josh Charles) and teenage daughter (Talitha Bateman) for Emma Green (Swank), who often struggles with her torn emotions en route to the "Red Planet." Ato Essandoh, Vivian Wu, Mark Ivanir and Ray Panthaki play her fellow astronauts, who have their own personal concerns.

Also an executive producer of "Away," Swank says she was drawn to Emma being written as "an immensely deep, layered human being. I love that the commander of this mission to Mars is a woman and that's not the drama of the story. I think that shows how far we've come working towards equality.

"The drama is these richly different racial backgrounds," adds Swank, "these people who are on this journey working towards a goal together while having this gravitational pull to Earth, all having these families that make it a love story. That's one of the big reasons I wanted to come onboard not only as an actor, but as an executive producer."

"Parenthood" and "Friday Night Lights" veteran Jason Katims also is among "Away's" executive producers, and he reasons that the saga has even more relevance in the age of the coronavirus pandemic.

"We shot the first season of the show, and then we were in postproduction," Katims reflects, "and a few months ago, we all had to go home and we worked remotely. Editors and producers and visualeffects people were all sending notes and cuts back and forth to each other, and we were trying to figure out how to do something without having the normal human interaction that's so important to the creative process and to life.

"Suddenly, when we started to re-watch these cuts in this context, the show started to resonate in a way that we never imagined before ... like, the idea of not being able to be with the people that are most important to you.'

However, "Away" writer and executive producer Andrew Hinderaker believes that optimism also is a huge element of the drama. Basing it partially on a magazine article about astronaut Scott Kelly's preparation for a year aboard the International Space Station, he says, "Now, more than ever, is the time to remember what we're capable of and what happens when we believe in science and when the world works together. We're in just such a prime moment to capture that space-exploration excitement, absolutely."

In Focus

Sept. 27) While the audience is used to hearing Stewie (voice of Seth MacFarlane) speaking in erudite Ivy League tones, in the world of the show's characters, he's still a baby who can't be understood by his grown-up human family members. In the season premiere, "Stewie's First Word" — also the show's 350th episode — the little boy hits that developmental milestone, but his first word of choice is filthy. Shunned by other moms, Lois (voice of Alex Borstein) tries to figure out where Stewie picked up that obscenity

What's Available NOW On

"Movie: Alive and Kicking" Former Hollywood director and passionate swing dance fan Susan Glatzer originally conceived of this 2017 documentary as a project for someone else. It delves into the world of swing dance and the improvisational nature of swing dance competitions.

"Movie: Just Charlie"

From the U.K. comes this 2017 drama movie about a 14-year-old soccer star (Harry Gilby, "Grantchester") who has caught the eye of several academies but hides a secret that could change everything — that he's a girl trapped in a boy's body. Scot Williams, Travis Blake Hall, Jeff Alexander and Karen Bryson also star for director Rebekah Fortune ("Deadly Intent").

"Movie: Hurricane Bianca"

Fired from a job in Texas for being gay, a New York teacher returns to the big Apple disguised as a nasty woman to exact revenge on those who were cruel to him in this 2016 comedy from writer/director Matt Kugelman in his feature film directorial debut. Drag queen Roy Haylock plays the title character in a cast that also includes Rachel Dratch, Alan Cumming, Margaret Cho and RuPaul.

"Smile Down the Runway" From Japan comes the first season of this animated series about two young people with aspirations to work in the fashion industry — she as a model, he as a designer — despite discouragement from those around them.

Fox plays one of the would-be rescuers, who soon find their mission more complex than they anticipated, so they seek refuge at a supposedly abandoned farm to regroup. They eventually discover the place was used by poachers to breed lions, and (see if you guessed it) one of the animals is still around .. and hungry. "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit" alum Philip Winchester, who also worked with director and co-writer M.J. Barrett on the series "Strike Back," and Calli Taylor (Lifetime's "The Wrong Stepmother") are among co-stars. ** (R: P, GV) (Also on DVD and On Demand)

FULL NAME: Fernando Gabriel BIRTH DATE: Jan. 2, 1999 BIRTHPLACE: San Pedro de HEIGHT/WEIGHT: 6 feet 3 inches/185 pounds

He missed out on Rookie of the Year honors last year but Fernando Tatis Jr. might be MLB's best second-year player in 2020. Indeed, the San Diego Padres' shortstop is putting together a stellar campaign in the pandemic-shortened season's early going, batting .291 with five home runs, 14 RBIs, a .391 on-base percentage and a monster 1.063 OPS through 13 games. His raw talent has also been on display - the blazing speed, the rocket arm and the power.

At age 21, he's also shown signs of maturity, laying off bad pitches and crushing pitches in the strike zone. True, his strikeout rate is still high – about 35 percent compared to just under 30 percent in 2019 - but that can be traced to an early spike of strikeouts looking, a number that will likely decrease.

Last year, he'd have won the National League's Rookie of the Year Award were it not for two factors: His season-ending back injury in August and the emergence of New York Mets slugger Pete Alonso and his rookie-record-setting 53 home runs. Still, Tatis' 2019 numbers, which he compiled in just 84 games, were certainly formidable - a .317 average, 22 home runs, 53 RBIs, a .379 on-base percentage and an OPS of .969.

The scary part is he'll likely get only better and be the lynchpin of a talented Padres offense for years to come.

Tatis and the Padres can be seen in action Saturday, Sept. 5, when they face the Oakland A's in a game airing on Fox Sports 1.

HONORS AND ACHIEVEMENTS: In four mind league seasons, batted .280 with 42 home runs, 143 RBIs, a .360 on-base percentage and an OPS of .847; at the beginning of 2019, was ranked in the top three of prospects in baseball by MLB Pipeline, ESPN, Baseball America and Baseball Prospectus; hit first MLB home run on April 1; finishe hird in 2019 Rookie of the Year

tasty tv BY GEORGE DICKI Nick Liberato helps owners find success on Netflix's 'Restaurants on the Edge'

We've all been to them: Overpriced, mediocre restaurants that seem to get by because of their great view or waterfront location.

They're generally known as tourist traps and diners in the know tend to avoid them. As words gets out and business falls off, their owners become desperate. That's where Nick Liberato comes in.

On his series "Restaurants on the Edge," currently streaming its second season on Netflix, the Philadelphia native, entrepreneur and former host of "Bar Rescue" comes in with an outsider's perspective and helps frustrated restaurateurs make tweaks large and small to their businesses in the hopes of turning them into successes.

In Season 2, he's doing that in places such as Slovenia, Arizona, Finland, Hawaii and St. Croix.

"I hate to call it a hack mentality," he says, "but I think people get more comfortable because of the location they have because they feel like they're selling real estate as opposed to just really enjoying giving an experience to a guest. You know, it's the difference between someone calling the people that come through their door a guest or a customer. It's a personal thing and that's why people return to businesses."

In each episode, Liberato, interior designer Karin Bohn and chef Dennis Prescott go into these business and offer their culinary, business and design expertise to transform not only the eatery but the owners' outlooks. To do this, they'll tap into the locales and create decor and cuisine that's copacetic with the restaurant's surroundings. So in a place like St. Croix, for instance, they'll use light, beach colors for the interior and make the menu heavy on local seafood, things the owners weren't doing.

It's what Liberato calls connecting with the locals and it's one of his mantras.

"It's definitely a vibe or whatever you want to call it," explains Liberato, who also helps businesses in distress in his own concern, 618 Hospitality, "what someone feels when they walk into a place so it's important to make sure everybody's connecting on a certain level, from the lighting to the music to the aromatics to everything that you see in the place, the textures. And that's what I've always tried to do. And by going out into the surrounding communities, you're able to see what reflects on the environment."

"You know, I had the best of times in the littlest nooks and crannies in cities all over the world," he continues, "and it's only because the people care, because it's unique, it's a unique experience and they're doing something cool. They're innovative and they have integrity. And that's what I look for in people that I hire. That's what I always strive for myself, to just be better, and that's when you're going to have a successful business."
