Finally, Keith Urban hosts the 55th Academy of Country Music Awards

Keith Urban didn't envision his debut as host of the Academy of Country Music Awards going quite this way.

Calling himself the event's "longest single reigning entertainer of the year," he notes that's due to the coronaviruspandemic-caused delay of the 55th edition of the ceremony to Wednesday, Sept. 16. That's when CBS and CBS All Access will present it from several legendary Nashville locations – the Grand Ole Opry, the Ryman Auditorium and the Bluebird Cafe – as the show originates for the first time from the country-music capital. (It had been slated for April in Las Vegas, where Urban had started a concert residency.)

"I'm glad we're able to have it go ahead at all," reasons the ever-friendly Urban, nominated this time for male artist of the year. "We have to make it work in this new rhythm that we're all figuring out now, doing things remotely without (on-site) audiences. The word that always comes to my mind is 'innovation,' and that's really what we're all in the midst of, doing what we do in this new context."

During the ACM Awards, Urban likely will make use of technology, as he notably did by "tripling himself" while performing "Higher Love" on last April's multiple-network "One World: Together at Home" special. (Entering his home studio toward the song's end, wife Nicole Kidman somehow knew which of the three was the "real" Urban to walk over to.)

Admitting that he felt he was in "artistic paralysis" in the pandemic's early weeks, Urban says he pulled himself out of it step by step, doing such things as a Tennessee drive-intheater concert for health-care workers. "Once I pointed myself toward the things I can do and not what I can't do, that really was the pivotal thing for me," he reflects. "I started to get back on the horse, as it were; then, a whole surge of creativity came.'

As the international touring itinerary he'd planned for 2020 shifted to 2021, Urban completed his new album "The Speed of Now Part 1," which drops Friday, Sept. 18. Among its selections are the already released singles "God Whispered Your Name," "We Were," "Superman" and "Polaroid."

With the ACM Awards making their Nashville debut, Urban says, "It's much like the first time the CMA Awards went out of Nashville to New York in 2005, when I won both male vocalist of the year and entertainer of the year. I feel very fortunate that I've been able to be a part of a couple of really extraordinary moments in countrymusic history ... but it's amazing that the ACMs have never been in Nashville before. It's crazy that it took a pandemic to make it happen."

"SUCCESSION: THE COMPLETE SECOND SEASON"

The widely acclaimed HBO show, about a dysfunctional family and its business dynasty, has the most Emmy nominations for any drama series this year ... 18, encompassing one for outstanding drama series and another for series creator Jesse Armstrong's writing. Just about every principal performer playing a member of the Roy family also is nominated, as the stories open with mediatycoon patriarch Logan (Brian Cox) advised to sell the company. Instead, he makes a choice for his successor as CEO that opens fresh wounds and launches a new round of infighting among the relatives and others in their inner circles. Jeremy

Strong, Kieran Culkin, Sarah Snook, Matthew Macfadyen, Nicholas Braun and Alan Ruck also continue their leading roles. Very notable cast additions here are Holly Hunter and Cherry Jones, playing associated media leaders who have their eyes on the Roys' empire. **** (Not rated: AS, P)

"KILLING EVE: SEASON THREE"

With stars Jodie Comer and Sandra Oh currently Emmy-nominated for it, this third round of the BBC America and AMC saga nominated for outstanding drama series, among its eight total bids – finds their characters trying to survive without each other, despite the powerful mutual attraction they share. The eight episodes begin with former assassin Villanelle (Comer) apparently ready to settle into wedded life ... but before the nuptials can take place, she's offered a return to her former profession that may be too hard to resist. As for MI6 alum Eve (Oh), she seems to be acclimated to civilian life, but that doesn't last long when a shocking death draws her into a fresh pursuit of Villanelle's organization. There's more to come here, since Season 4 already has been ordered; with Fiona Shaw and Kim Bodnia also returning, Ayoola Smart and Alexandra Roach are among new cast members here.

*** (Not rated: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"OUTLANDER: SEASON FIVE"

The hugely popular Starz series based on Diana Gabaldon's novels continues, with an additional "Collector's Edition" – including an excerpt from the next "Outlander" book, "Go Tell the Bees That I Am Gone" – offered as a Blu-ray option. The era of the American Revolution is the backdrop here, with Jamie (Sam Heughan) trying to protect the home that he and Claire (Caitriona Balfe) have made for themselves, while Claire herself must call her medical skills into play as events unfold. Brianna and Roger (Sophie Skelton, Richard Rankin) face their own family challenges, thanks in no small part to Stephen Bonnet (Edward Speleers). DVD extras: three "making-of" documentaries; outtakes; bonus scenes; music video. ***

(Not rated: AS, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"ROMAN HOLIDAY"

Director William Wyler's classic romantic comedy joins the "Paramount Presents" line of milestone movies from the studio's catalog that are getting new releases on Blu-ray. This is the debut in that format for this film, which earned Audrey Hepburn an Oscar for her first starring role as a princess who breaks away from her closely managed life to experience Rome (where the picture was shot on location) on her own. She crosses paths with a reporter (Gregory Peck) who initially doesn't recognize her without all the royal aspects, then they have a series of fun misadventures seeing the legendary sights of the city, Eddie Albert also stars in the feature, which earned Academy Awards for its story and Edith Head costume design as well and the story aspect is important, since this is the first time the once-blacklisted Dalton Trumbo gets full credit for his writing on the film in a physical home-video presentation. The extras include observations by veteran film critic and historian Leonard Maltin, plus a recap of Hepburn's work for Paramount in the 1950s. *** (Not rated: AS)

Woodland defends U.S. Open title at Winged Foot

When Gary Woodland tees it up this week at the U.S. Open, fans will likely see a golfer who is not the man he was a year ago. In a good way.

Indeed, the defending champion in the 2020 PGA Tour's second major, which takes place Thursday through Sunday, Sept. 17-20, at Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y. (and airs on Golf Channel and NBC), is 27 pounds lighter than when he won a year ago at Pebble Beach. And the secret of his success was pretty simple - no fried food or sugar.

The heavier version of Woodland proved to be a formidable match for two-time defending champ Brooks Koepka in last year's tournament. The 36-year-old native of Topeka, Kan., was leading Koepka by a shot in the final round when he went for the green on the par-5 14th. A 263-yard fairway shot just over a bunker set up a simple up-and-down for the birdie and a two-stroke lead.

Then at the par-3 17th, Woodland sailed a drive well to the right of the pin, landing 90 feet away over a hump. But he managed to save par with a nifty wedge that set up a tap in. The ensuing 30-foot birdie putt on No. 18 sealed a threestroke victory over Koepka and gave him the lowest 72-hole score – a 13-under 271 – in six U.S. Opens at Pebble Beach.

He'll defend his title this week against a field that includes Koepka, Dustin Johnson, Jordan Spieth, Martin Kaymer, Justin Rose, Webb Simpson and Rory McIlroy.

Lowcountry cuisine gets the spotlight on 'Delicious Miss Brown'

Fans of Food Network's "Delicious Miss Brown" have not only gotten a primer on Lowcountry cuisine across its twoplus seasons, but also been treated to the beautiful vistas seen from the kitchen of host Kardea Brown's waterfront South Carolina home.

As it turns out, the chef catches her own seafood there, too, with crab, trout and crappie being the most common quarry.

"My great grandfather for a living made shrimp nets," the Charleston native explains, "so from a young girl I knew how to kind of catch fish and bait fish from a young (age). And shrimp as well. So it's something that if you grow up in the Lowcountry, it's just something that you learn automatically, like walking."

Now in its third season on Saturdays, the half-hour series returns Brown to share more of her cherished family recipes and Southern traditions. With the help of her food-loving family of Gullah/Geechee descent, she'll show how prepare such dishes as a grilled mahi sandwich, a grilled shrimp macaroni salad, blueberry ricotta pancakes with blueberry-honey sauce and cheesy baked eggs with potatoes and mustard greens.

And for the first time, there will be holiday episodes.

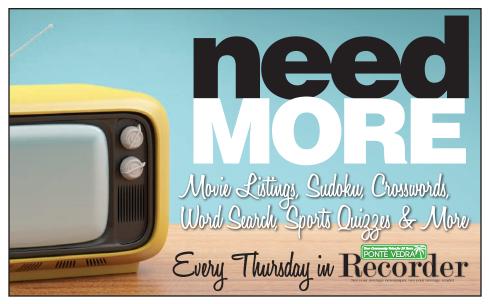

"I'm really looking forward to that," she says. "Since it's going to be in the fall, we'll have a Thanksgiving and a Christmas holiday show, so viewers have to look forward to that as well as seeing my family and just getting more into the Gullah/Geechee culture. We talk a lot about that this season. And that's basically the big points. But I mean, of course, the same good cooking and lots of fun and excitement."

Cooking has been a part of Brown's life from a very young age. Learning at the side of her mother and grandmother, the former New Jersey social worker turned her passion into a career in adulthood, first with a catering business and then with pop-up supper clubs. While the former has fallen by the wayside as she began doing the show, the latter persists. Both have served to sharpen the skills she uses on "Delicious Miss Brown" today.

"I believe that cooking always should be approachable," she says. "In my opinion, cooking should be something that if you love to do it, it should be one of those things that — like I always say, when you're not in a good mood, just don't cook. Because it comes out. You know, however you feel, that mood that you're in, translates into your finished product. So I always say, you know, cook with love and always cook with the best intention."

HOW THE RIGHT TO VOTE WENT WRONG THE FIGHT FOR DEMOCRACY

"The Goes Wrong Show"

From Great Britain's BBC One comes this comedy series inspired by a British stage production, that follows the well-meaning amateurs of the Cornley Dramatic Society as they attempt to put on a series of terrible TV plays, all of which end in disaster before a live studio audience. It's the brainchild of the British comedy troupe Mischief, whose members make up the cast.

"Movie: Get Duked!"

From across the pond comes this 2019 anarchic, hip-hop-inspired action comedy about four city boys who go off on a wilderness trek as they try to escape from a mysterious huntsman. Eddie Izzard, Kate Dickie, James Cosmo and Kevin Guthrie head the cast for director Ninian Doff ("The Chemical Brothers: We've Got to Try").

"Movie: Irresistible"

Longtime "Daily Show" host-turnedfilmmaker Jon Stewart directed this enjoyable 2020 comedy about a Democratic strategist (Steve Carell, "The Office") who helps a retired U.S. Marine veteran (Chris Cooper, "A Beautiful Day in the Neighborhood") run for mayor in a small, conservative Midwest town. Rose Byrne, Brent Sexton, Will Sasso and Topher Grace are also in the solid cast.

"Movie: All In: The Fight for Democracy"

Filmmakers Liz Garbus ("I'll Be Gone in the Dark") and Lisa Cortes ("Precious") helmed this documentary that looks at the history and activism against voter suppression. One of the producers of the film is Stacey Abrams, the former congresswoman from Georgia who claims the tactic was used against her in her run for the governorship of that state in 2018. (ORIGINAL)
