Michael C. Hall adds 'New Blood' to 'Dexter' revival

Old habits die hard, as Dexter Morgan is about to reaffirm.

Showtime revives one of its most popular dramas as Michael C. Hall resumes the title role of the well-intentioned serial killer in "Dexter: New Blood," premiering Sunday, Nov. 7. Set a decade after Dexter left Miami amid a hurricane, the new series establishes him in an upstate New York town with a new identity and a romance with the police chief (Julia Jones) ... but that doesn't keep him from resorting to his lethal former ways when fresh circumstances prompt that.

"There were all kinds of things that would float through my mind," Hall reflects of continuing "Dexter" after the supposed finale in 2013. "I think my mother wanted him to be in a monastery. She just wanted to watch him meditate for 10 hours. That didn't happen. Honestly, I think from the day the show ended until we started – and perhaps even finished principal photography on – this revisitation, it's been percolating. It's been something that's been maybe a sometimes unconscious preoccupation. There's been a sense of it being unfinished business."

Indeed, Hall acknowledges criticism from many "Dexter" devotees about the ending eight years ago: "I think a lot of what was mystifying or dissatisfying to people is a lot of what creates the appetite we're hopefully satisfying now. The show did not end in a way that was definitive for people, or gave anybody a sense of closure. We didn't hear from Dexter; he didn't say anything to us when the show ended, and I think it left audiences, if nothing else, in a sense of suspended animation. I think a big part of our motivation was to definitively answer the question of what happened to this guy."

Other familiar faces also resurface, including Jennifer Carpenter as Dexter's sister Debra and John Lithgow, who won a Primetime Emmy Award as the so-called "Trinity Killer" ... though fans of the original show may question how they could reappear. Carpenter says she deems Debra, in her "New Blood" form, "more of a link or an echo or an inconvenient truth for Dexter. That's what I was attracted to." Dexter's son Harrison also figures into the plot, now played by Jack Alcott.

Hall also returns as a "Dexter" executive producer, along with Clyde Phillips, Scott Reynolds and Marcos Siega. The "New Blood" shoot was completed in just under four months in Massachusetts (doubling for fictional Iron Lake, New York), and Phillips calls it "an extraordinary undertaking," particularly under pandemic conditions. "It was the hardest I think all of us have ever worked, and we're really proud of the fact that we accomplished what we set out to do."

"How to With John Wilson" (HBO — season premiere, Nov. 26)
The self-described "anxious New Yorker"

The self-described "anxious New Yorker" and quirky documentary filmmaker John Wilson returns for the sophomore season of his six-part docuseries, in which he continues his eccentric journey of self-exploration and observation. Following the show's off-the-wall premise, Wilson turns his cameras on his fellow New Yorkers going about their lives, while he also tries to offer practical advice on six new and deceptively simple topics.

"Movie: The Fvil Next Door"

DISCOVER FLORIDA'S

Where it all began...

To understand the significance of Menorcan's at the St. Augustine Lighthouse, we must recognize their role in its history. Many lightkeepers were of Menorcan descent, including Juan Andreu, the first lighthouse keeper in the newly lit St. Augustine Lighthouse, Juan Carrera, Joseph Andreu, Maria Andreu, and Siladonio Pellicer. These individuals, whose ancestors traveled to New Smyrna to work as indentured servants, were instrumental in the rise of Menorcan culture in St. Augustine.

Perhaps the most notable of Menorcan Lighthouse Keepers was Maria de los Delores Menstre Andreu, a woman of many firsts. After her husband Juan's tragic passing, Maria became the first female lighthouse keeper and Hispanic-American woman to serve in the United States Coast Guard and command a federal shore installation, setting a precedent for Hispanic American women serving in the military. For over 150 years, Maria Andreu's trailblazing experience has inspired generations of women to serve their country.

"Your Life Is a Joke"

From Germany comes this rather unusual documentary series that follows stand-up comic Oliver Polak ("Life Is Too Long") as he spends a whole day with each of his famous guests and then subjects them to a roast in this unique twist on the celebrity profile. (ORIGINAL)

"Gentefied"

The sophomore round of this bilingual dramedy continues the adventures of three Mexican-American cousins chasing the American Dream in Los Angeles, even while that same dream threatens the things they hold dear — their neighborhood, their immigrant grandfather and the family taco shop. Joaquín Cosio, J.J. Soria and Karrie Martin head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: Passing"

Actress Rebecca Hall made her feature film directorial debut with this drama that tells the story of two Black women (Tessa Thompson, Ruth Negga) who can "pass" as white but choose to live on opposite sides of the color line during the Harlem Renaissance in late 1920s New York. André Holland, Bill Camp and Gbenga Akinnagbe are also in the cast. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: Red Notice"

Rawson Marshall Thurber ("Easy A," "Dodgeball: An Underdog Story") directed this action comedy that stars Dwayne Johnson as an FBI profile who is forced to team with an art thief (Ryan Reynolds) to catch another art thief (Gal Gadot). Ritu Arya and Chris Diamantopoulos are also in the cast. (ORIGINAL)

player profile

Greek Freak helps Bucks fly title flag

In his eight-year career, Giannis Antetokounmpo has climbed virtually every mountain an NBA player can.

League championship? Check. League MVP? Double-check. NBA Finals MVP? Yes that, too, as well as many other laurels.

So what's next for the athletic big man otherwise known as the "Greek Freak"? Maybe a stint in the White Sox farm system?

Of course, he doesn't have nearly the resume of Michael Jordan but an argument can be made that Antetokounmpo is the best player of his time. And the scary thing for the rest of the NBA is he wants to get better.

An area of persistent weakness has been his three-point shooting, which over the course of his NBA career has averaged under 30 percent. But in preseason, it appeared he'd been working on that, displaying a quicker and more confident release in games. If he can raise that percentage by another five or six points this season, he'd be nearly unguardable.

He's coming off one of the finest NBA Finals a player has ever had, averaging 35.2 points, 13.2 rebounds and 5.0 assists while shooting 61.8 percent. And few will forget his stellar performance in the deciding Game 6 when he scored 50 points with 14 rebounds and five blocked shots to dispatch the Phoenix Suns and give the Bucks their first championship in 50 years.

Antetokounmpo and the Bucks can be seen in action twice this week in road games: Tuesday, Nov. 9, on TNT against the Philadelphia 76ers and Friday, Nov. 12, on ESPN against the Boston Celtics.

HGTV's 'Table Wars' puts competitive tablescaping front and center

When considering the overall dining experience, obviously the food is the thing but the decor on and around the table also plays a role. And that's where "Table Wars" comes in.

Premiering Friday, Nov. 12, on HGTV and discovery+, the seven-episode competition series pits eight top event designers in a series of challenges to see who can create the ultimate themed dining environment incorporating tablescapes, centerpieces, lighting and displays. The contestant who most impresses the judging panel of lead judge Martha Stewart, actress Tamera Mowry-Housley ("Sister, Sister") and event designer Chris Hessney wins the "Table Wars" title and a $50,000 grand prize.

"Having a beautiful tablescape just elevates and heightens those senses," explains Mowry-Housley, who is also the show's host. "So you're seeing things, you're feeling things and you're tasting things ... so it embodies all the human senses and it just makes it that much of a better experience instead of just kind of forcing food in your mouth. And if you feel good, you're relaxed, you see conversational pieces, it'll actually invite the guests that you've invited to actually start having conversations, to open up and to meet people. That's what tablescaping does, I think."

The backgrounds of the contestants here are varied. While many are event designers, there are also people with backgrounds in wedding planning, theme park design, set design and even parade float fabrication. And the creations are certainly outside the box.

In Friday's opener, a team challenge tasks one pair of contestants with creating a tablescape with the theme of "Day/Night." The final product, in which one half of the table looked like it was bathed in moonlight while the other appeared to be sunlit, was breathtaking.

Mowry-Housley is something of a tablescaper herself. She's always been into interior design and likes putting parties together and setting the table. So when judging the tablescapes here, she says her eye is drawn to one thing – beauty.

"I love colors, I love texture, I love patterns," she says. "If it's beautiful and it's just visually stunning ... it just makes you feel good. It's inviting. So if something is really beautiful, you naturally open up and you just want to sit down and enjoy the space. ... I love seeing people's faces when they see what you've done and then on top of that being able to enjoy a great meal in that setting."
