John Cena is 'Peacemaker' again in HBO Max series

After being part of the Suicide Squad, Peacemaker is ready to go off on his own.

Following the 2021 movie about the team of convicts turned crime-fighters, John Cena works again with writer-director James Gunn by reprising the DC Comics character – who intends to instill peace, even if that takes committing mayhem – as the new series "Peacemaker" begins streaming Thursday, Jan. 13, on HBO Max. A black ops soldier, Christopher Smith (Cena) uses everything at his disposal to try to shape the world the way he'd like it, whatever price anyone else must pay in the process.

"I was not planning to do it at all," maintains "Guardians of the Galaxy" filmmaker Gunn of revisiting "Peacemaker" in series form, but he thought differently after he was approached by DC executives. "They were like, 'Hey, if you could do a TV show on any one of the characters from "The Suicide Squad," who would you do?'

"I just found something really interesting about Peacemaker, because I loved working with John Cena and I thought that he had a lot of acting gifts and comedy gifts that we weren't able to fully utilize in the movie. And also because I thought he was just a really cool, interesting character that could be pertinent to today's world, in terms of his sort of backwards way of looking at things. A lot of the show is about his friendships with these other characters, even though they represent very different parts of America today."

Robert Patrick ("Scorpion") is cast as Peacemaker/Christopher's disapproving father Auggie, with the "Harry Potter" movies' Freddie Stroma as Adrian Chase, a district attorney who moonlights as crime-battler Vigilante. Danielle Brooks ("Robin Roberts Presents: Mahalia"), Steve Agee and Jennifer Holland also are series regulars.

The notably glib Cena built a successful acting career out of his fame as a WWE superstar, and while he deems "Peacemaker" a sensible career step, he also feels it fits his overall approach. "Living life with a sense of curiosity and a sense of challenge to want to see more, learn more, do more, I think that's a great way to go about using the gift that we're given," Cena reasons. "That's only my perspective, but I don't think that should be just applied towards a career. I think that's a great way to look at life."

As for what he believes will sustain the character throughout a series, Gunn reflects, "Peacemaker has a lot to learn, and it wouldn't take just one season of TV for him to learn that. But it is that ability to learn that he does have, I believe, that for me makes him a little bit more likable."

DISCOVER FLORIDA'S FIRST LIGHTHOUSE

In 1875, Major William A. Harn became Head Keeper of the St. Augustine Lighthouse. Keeper Harn and his wife Kate, along with their daughters, became the first residents of the Keepers' House. Life at a light station was busy, and everyone would help tend to the light and grounds. One aspect of this was to greet and entertain visitors. The Harn children loved hearing stories from the outside world as Kate served lemonade on the porch of the Keepers' House.

The Harn family lived and worked at the light station from 1876 until 1889. After William's passing, Kate served as the Second Assistant before moving the family into town and later returning home to Maine. The photograph above was taken at the Harn family home in Maine during the 1920s. Among those pictured are Kate and five of her six daughters.

Herbert airing it out for Chargers

Justin Herbert's elite arm strength was already well-known around the NFL. But a recent play involving the Los Angeles Chargers' second-year quarterback served only to burnish what is becoming a legendary reputation.

It was third and 11 with time running down in the second quarter of the Bolts' Week 14 game against the New York Giants when Herbert dropped back, rolled right and launched a bullet 65 yards on a fly that wide receiver Jalen Guyton caught in stride in for what would be a 59-yard touchdown pass and a 24-7 lead. Fans and announcers at SoFi Stadium went berserk and the video of the play soon went viral.

As much MVP talk swirls around Tom Brady, Aaron Rodgers and Kyler Murray, it might be wise not to sleep on Herbert. As of mid-December, the 2020 Offensive Rookie of the Year was fourth in the league in passing yards with 3,822 (behind Brady, Derek Carr and Matthew Stafford) and third in passing touchdowns with 30 (behind Brady and Stafford).

Furthermore, after two losing seasons the Chargers have a legitimate shot at the postseason and the stellar play of their 23-year-old signal caller is a big reason why. If he and the Bolts can stay hot and reach the playoffs, Herbert and his cannon right arm may wind up with another addition to his trophy case.

Herbert and the Chargers can be seen in action Sunday, Jan. 9, when they drop in on the Las Vegas Raiders in the regular season finale airing as a regional game on CBS.

Guarnaschelli challenges culinary masters in 'Alex vs. America'

Alex Guarnaschelli's reputation as a fierce competitor on shows such as "Iron Chef America," "Food Network Challenge" and "Beat Bobby Flay" is legendary. But now she's willing to put herself at a competitive disadvantage in a new show airing on Food Network.

In "Alex vs. America," airing Sundays, the chef and cookbook author invites in culinary masters from across the country to compete in their given specialty, be it chocolate, shellfish or sugar.

The catch here is that these areas may or may not be Guarnaschelli's strong suit, thus forcing her to up her game and perhaps stretch her culinary boundaries. The final products undergo a blind tasting and a winner is declared. Eric Adjepong ("Top Chef") is the host.

"It makes me feel like what would normally come into my head to do is not going to cut it here ...," Guarnaschelli explains. "I have a lot of pride when it comes to competing. And does that always means that the pride only comes when you win? No. I think the pride comes, too, when you make a good dish and you're proud of it even if it's not the best dish.

"And then there's the other side of it," she continues, "which is you don't always win. Did you learn? Did you grow? Did you interface with people that you wouldn't have and did you see interpretations of these ingredients or techniques that you didn't know? Absolutely. So the question is, somehow how can you be the master of your universe and a student of it at the same time? And I think viewers might feel a little bit of the same, I'm hoping."

And learning is what it is all about for Guarnaschelli. An executive chef at New York's Butter restaurant with more than 30 years of experience, Guarnaschelli is always ready to add another weapon to her culinary arsenal. And competing against people who are considered to be masters at what they do is a great way to learn – and be humbled.

"Cooking has a way of always cutting you down to size," she says. "There's always another piece of humble pie available for consumption. I like the learning. I like winning. I don't mind that I don't always win. And I love the learning of it. And I love the energy. I didn't know so many people wanted to come and try and beat me."
