Lauren Alaina helps bring 'CMA Fest' to life again

With each appearance she's made at the annual "CMA Fest," Lauren Alaina has marked another career milestone.

This past June, when the Country Music Association staged the Nashville event at which fans can get up-close to stars, the "American Idol" alum had a whopper of an accolade to celebrate: It was Alaina's first time at the festival as a member of the Grand Ole Opry, to which she was inducted in February. ABC broadcasts its traditional three-hour digest of the four-day gathering Wednesday, Aug. 3, with Dierks Bentley and Elle King as hosts.

At several different venues during that weekend, Alaina – who is doing much concert touring this summer – performed tunes from her latest album, the top-selling "Sitting Pretty on Top of the World" (which she also co-wrote most of). She says with her customary laugh, "I was all over the place! I always love 'CMA Fest.' All artists owe their careers to the fans, because we create art and they listen to it, which enables us to write and release more music. It all comes back to them.

"Specifically for me, I came into this career because the fans voted me into it (on 'American Idol')," adds Alaina, "so I have always had this deep level of appreciation and gratitude for my fans, and I feel like 'CMA Fest' is the perfect way to celebrate that. It's very hot there, but very fun." Alaina also enjoyed debuting her duet (with Chris Lane) that updates King Harvest's early-1970s hit "Dancin' in the Moonlight" live at the festival.

The typically star-packed "CMA Fest" also included these artists in its 2022 lineup: Carrie Underwood, Luke Bryan, Keith Urban, Lady A, Alan Jackson, Wynonna Judd (in one of her first performances after the passing of her mother and frequent singing partner, Naomi Judd), Jason Aldean, Jimmie Allen, Kelsea Ballerini, Thomas Rhett, Darius Rucker, Zac Brown Band, Cole Swindell, Gabby Barrett, Carly Pearce, Ashley McBryde and King Calaway ... among many others.

Alaina is still basking in the glow of her recent Grand Ole Opry induction, which has made her the youngest living member of that institution.

"That is the biggest and most amazing thing that's ever happened in my career," she confirms. "I don't think I will ever be able to top it, honestly. There are no words to describe what that means to me, as both a country music artist and a lover of country music when I was growing up. I remember the first time I ever got to play there, my dad was there, and he was crying like a baby on the side of the stage. It's always been a really important place for me."

Barbecue like a pro with Big Moe

Big Moe Cason is a champion pitmaster with a passion for barbecue and now he's bringing his talents to cultures in different parts of the world to create meals that impress the locals in a new series on National Geographic.

In "World of Flavor With Big Moe Cason," a four-part unscripted series airing Mondays, the U.S. Navy veteran and Iowa native leaves the comforts of his world behind as he embarks on an epic journey to find the most delicious dishes cooked over fire.

In the Aug. 1 episode titled "Cowboys and 'Cue in Colombia," Cason visits the South American nation to discover one of the oldest methods of cooking over an open flame. While there, he also samples insects from a street vendor, braves piranha- and crocodile-infested waters and seeks out knowledge from a group of traditional Colombian cowboys at a nature preserve.

Subsequent episodes bring Cason back to North America to get a primer on Cajun and Creole cuisine in the Louisiana bayou, then use his newfound skills to prepare a meal to win over the locals (Aug. 8); and to the Bahamas, where he dives for conch, chases after crabs on land and welds his own grill from a tire rim and a stool, which he then uses to grill up a feast to share with friends (Aug. 15).

If this has piqued your curiosity about Cason's handwork, then you might want to mosey on over to YouTube and the Armed Forces Entertainment channel for "Moe Cason's Taste of the Outdoors."

In this Kansas-shot series, the emphasis is mainly on wild game as in different episodes Cason shows how to prepare smoked wild turkey, grilled venison backstrap, smoked crappie and grilled pheasant. He also cooks up a soul food feast, and smokes prime rib and bone-in tomahawk steaks. Truly, this is a meat-lover's show.

And over on HSTV, there is "Moe Town BBQ" (www.hstv.com/show/ moe-town-bbq). Here, he shows how to make some of his favorite home-grown recipes, breaking them down into easy steps so that anyone can execute them.

So in the three seasons of this series, viewers will learn how to make a variety of smoked dishes, including a smoked Philly cheesesteak flatbread, a smoked brisket mac and cheese and a whole smoked brined chicken with stuffed mushrooms. They'll also get tips on how to tailgate like a pro and as well as learn new recipes and seasoning knowledge.
