Jennifer Nettles hosts Fox's revival of "Farmer Wants a Wife," premiering Wednesday.

Jennifer Nettles is down on the farms in reality-show revival

As her celebrated career in music continues, Jennifer Nettles has been building another one in unscripted television.

A winner of many awards (including Grammys) as a member of country music's Sugarland, Nettles also is a solo artist, and she has extended her brand by serving as a judge on the series "Duets" and "Go-Big Show." She potentially expands her reach again by playing host as four rural men seek mates from city-based prospects in a Fox revival of "Farmer Wants a Wife," premiering Wednesday, March 8.

Originated in England, "Farmer Wants a Wife" has yielded a number of international versions, the first U.S. one having aired on The CW in 2008. The friendly Nettles admits that reality television is "not my favorite genre, so I'm super-selective about the projects I choose. This one really stood out to me because it's so different. Everyone who's involved gets a chance to really look at everyone else, so it's authentic, and that's what I appreciate."

Deeming herself a "storyteller" no matter which aspect of her work she focuses on, Nettles believes that "Farmer Wants a Wife" also fulfills that designation for her. She calls it "a television fairy tale. It's really heartwarming to see these folks who are out there looking for love ... and who doesn't love a love story? That's what really drew me to it, to see that take place in real time, and for people who are in it for the right reasons."

Explaining that she's much more involved directly with the farmers on the show than with the women who are candidates to become their wives, Nettles likens her "Farmer Wants a Wife" role to that of "a fairy godmother, in a 'mentor' sort of way, to help them through this process. It is quite intimidating, I think, for them to take on a task like opening up their hearts and making themselves vulnerable – and doing it while cameras are around."

Also an actress, having starred on Broadway in "Chicago" and "Waitress" and having made a couple of Dolly Parton-inspired NBC holiday movies, Nettles maintains that music remains the strongest part of her professional mix. Her most recent solo album was the 2021 cover-version collection "Always Like New," and she maintains that she isn't certain when she might reteam with Sugarland partner Kristian Bush again.

"There are lots of ways to tell stories," Nettles reflects, who also has been making a movie in Atlanta lately. "While music is obviously my first love, I've been expanding over the past 10 years into TV and film and theater. That's mostly been on the scripted side, but it's fun to do unscripted things, too. It's all worked out wonderfully well."

“Wreck”

From Great Britain comes this comedic thriller series that follows Jamie (Oscar Kennedy, “Ladhood”), who goes to work on a luxury charter cruise ship to search for the sister who disappeared while also working there. Thaddea Graham (“The Irregulars”), Harriet Webb (“I May Destroy You”) and Jodie Tyack (“The Window”) are also in the cast.

“Movie: Batman Begins”

Christian Bale assumed the role of Gotham City’s caped crusader — or, more accurately in this case, Dark Knight — in director Christopher Nolan’s (“Memento”) 2005 reinterpretation of the saga. Batman’s alter ego, Bruce Wayne, is assisted by several mentors (Liam Neeson, Morgan Freeman, Michael Caine) en route to teaming up with a childhood friend (Katie Holmes) to stop the fearsome Scarecrow (Cillian Murphy).

“History of the World: Part II”

More than 40 years after director Mel Brooks’ seminal anthology “History of the World: Part I” comes this sequel series that features more historical comedy skits with a talented cast headed by Brooks, Danny DeVito, Wanda Sykes, Nick Kroll, Ike Barinholtz, Sarah Silverman, David Duchovny and Ken Marino. (ORIGINAL)

“Unprisoned”

From creator Tracy McMillan and executive producers Kerry Washington and Delroy Lindo comes this dramedy series about a messy but perfectionist relationship therapist and single mom (Washington) whose life is turned right-side-up when her dad (Lindo) gets out of prison and moves in with her and her teenage son (Faly Rakotohavana, “Raven’s Home”). Many eyes will undoubtedly be on this stand-up special streamed live in real time at 10 p.m. (ET) on this date from the Hippodrome Performing Arts Center in Baltimore, as it could potentially be the first time since being slapped by Will Smith at last year's Academy Awards that Rock directly addresses the incident. (ORIGINAL)

“Sex/Life”

Conversation and drinks: When talk shows get spirited

It's no secret that a few drinks can loosen lips and bring out the motormouth in even the most cloistered introvert. So imagine what it can do for folks who perform on camera for a living.

For makers of talk shows, that can translate to ratings gold as tipsy celebrity guests let their hair down, get silly and/or real and create the kind of buzz and publicity that money can't buy. And for viewers, it can be downright fun to watch.

A new entry joins that subgenre with "The Wine Down." Airing its second hourlong special Wednesday, March 8, on BET, it places R&B/soul/hip-hop icon Mary J. Blige in the role of host as she cracks a bottle of wine and engages in raw, provocative, insightful and real conversations with guests from the worlds of entertainment, sports, politics and social media.

So while few other details were available at this writing, it has been announced that Curtis "50 Cent" Jackson will be this week's guest to be engaged (and served) by Blige, who created the series with her production company Blue Butterfly.

Here are some other talk-with-drinks shows that viewers have sampled over the years.

"Late Night With Seth Meyers" (NBC): A fun element of this after hours talker is the segment "Seth Goes Day Drinking," in which the host and a celebrity guest spend an afternoon imbibing at a New York City establishment. The antics get silly and all concerned have fun as Meyers plays impromptu games and engages the likes of recording artist Rihanna, talk show host Kelly Clarkson, chef Ina Garten and actress Retta. These days, these segments can be found on YouTube.

"A Drink With" (YouTube): Hillary Sawchuk is your host for this series that was created in 2011 with the intention of bringing back frank conversation to media. Guests range from entertainers and artists to athletes and entrepreneurs and have included comedian Chelsea Handler, actress Natasha Lyonne, journalist Lisa Ling, race car driver Kyle Busch and author Katie Lee Biegel.

"Kocktails With Khloe" (FYI): Now available to stream on Hulu, this short-lived 2016 series featured socialite and TV personality Khloe Kardashian throwing a lively dinner party in her kitchen, where she drinks and chats it up with a range of guests including actor Taye Diggs, musical artist Sean Puffy Combs, TV personality Jeannie Mai and YouTube personality GloZell Green.

"Today With Kathie Lee & Hoda" (NBC): Hosts Kathie Lee Gifford and Hoda Kotb kept it light as they sipped Gifford's GIFFT wines while bantering with guests and each other in the fourth hour of NBC's venerable morning program. The fun ended with Gifford's departure in 2019.
