'Fear' the undead: 'Fear the Walking Dead' returns with final episodes

It's the beginning of the end of the trail for some apocalypse survivors in the return of the final season of "Fear the Walking Dead." The "Walking Dead" spinoff series' midseason premiere airs on AMC Sunday, Oct. 22, just in time for an early celebration of the eeriest holiday of the year. Kim Dickens ("Friday Night Lights") stars as Madison Clark, a high school guidance counselor before the outbreak who now oversees the reconstruction of a survivors' island colony.

"Fear the Walking Dead" closes out an impressive eight-season run with six episodes to go before the big, two-part series finale set to air Sunday, Nov. 19. The first of now six spinoffs of the original series, "Fear the Walking Dead" premiered in 2015 and followed an extended family as they tried to survive in post-apocalyptic Los Angeles. The series detailed the survivors' journey as they travelled and settled in California, Mexico and now an island off the Georgia coast.

The island, known as PADRE, was constructed after the walker outbreak as a military operation intended to distribute supplies to new communities of survivors. A tragic walker invasion decimated PADRE, and since then, desperate survivors have used the island's resources that once represented a more hopeful future.

In the first half of the final season of "Fear the Walking Dead," Madison landed on PADRE after a hard-fought journey to find the island with Morgan Jones (Lennie James, "Save Me"). The pair reunited Morgan with his daughter, Mo (Zoey Merchant, "The Price of Fame"), by force at PADRE before the show leaps seven years into the future. Madison is imprisoned on PADRE while Morgan spends most of the first six episodes of the season on his own mission, trying to save Grace Mukherjee (Karen David, "Legacies") from radiation sickness before sadly losing her and setting off to Alexandria.

With the dangerous former co-leaders of PADRE no longer a problem, Madison attempts to reinvigorate the spirit of PADRE and the island with the remaining resources available to them. While the final episodes of "Fear the Walking Dead" could certainly detail the establishment of a post-apocalyptic paradise, this is the Walking Dead universe after all, so there will undoubtedly be danger lurking in the shadows of PADRE.

This season also stars Rubén Blades ("The Counselor," 2013) as resistance leader Daniel Salazar; Colman Domingo ("Sing Sing," 2023) as antihero Victor Strand; Danay Garcia ("Prison Break") as survivor Luciana Galvez; Austin Amelio ("Hit Man," 2023) as PADRE member Dwight; Christine Evangelista ("Mrs. Fletcher") as Dwight's wife, Sherry; Jenna Elfman ("The Twilight Zone") as nurse June Dorie, who is on the run from PADRE; and one former cast member whose appearance in a trailer for the upcoming return of the series may have come as a surprise to "Fear the Walking Dead" fans.

Daniel Sharman ("A Town Called Malice") returns as Troy Otto, a member of the Broke Jaw Ranch community who last appeared in the third season of "Fear the Walking Dead." It seemed unlikely that Troy would make any sort of comeback after he was bludgeoned, but leave it to the Walking Dead universe to bring someone back from the dead. In an official trailer for the upcoming season, Troy spits, "Madison, been a while," before removing his sunglasses, revealing his chilling new appearance. Though one icy-white iris doesn't seem too bad for having survived a hammer attack.

The trailer also teases, in addition to some gruesome walker kills, a sword-wielding Victor teaming up with Madison to "save PADRE"; Daniel, Luciana and June all preparing for battle; nearly everyone staring down the barrel of a gun; explosions, car flips and muddy battles.

Chef Mary Berg teaches aspiring chefs in how-to show

Calling all aspiring chefs! It's time to sharpen your knives and prepare your mise-en-scène, as "Mary Makes it Easy" airs an all-new episode, Sunday, Oct. 22, on Food Network.

Hosted by Canadian television host, cookbook author and chef Mary Berg (winner of "MasterChef Canada" Season 3), this how-to series follows as Berg gives step-by-step instructions to follow recipes that are guaranteed to impress even the pickiest of eaters, as the chef hopes to teach culinary novices and cooks alike how to expand their recipe book without any of the stress.

With multiple seasons now under her belt, Berg has focused episodes on a myriad of topics, including: how to make multiple recipes all utilizing the same base ingredients — like coleslaw used both in golden brown Japanese Okonomiyaki-inspired pancakes and store-bought rotisserie chicken, turned into a nearly unrecognizable, quick and easy Coq au Vin; upgrading store-bought cookie doughs and pie crusts to make impressive desserts; using your kitchen tools — cast iron included — to their fullest potential; and even making the correct wine and alcohol pairings, in an episode in which Berg "shakes things up with Wine Can Chicken that's cooked with a cocktail of dry white wine, lemon and herbs" (Food Network).

In episodes to come, Food Network shares that Berg shares her love for cooking outside, detailing recipes that "take grill night to the next level."

"Brie and Pancetta Burgers are topped with chunky grilled red onion and gooey Brie cheese," they describe. "For a vegetarian grill-friendly main, Mary's Grilled Soy Maple Mushrooms caramelize beautifully, and on the lighter side, Grilled Scallops with Minty Pea Salad are flavored with garlic, lemon and herbs on a peppery arugula base. Finally, Mary does some barbecue baking with decadent Cheese Stuffed Grilled Garlic Flatbreads."

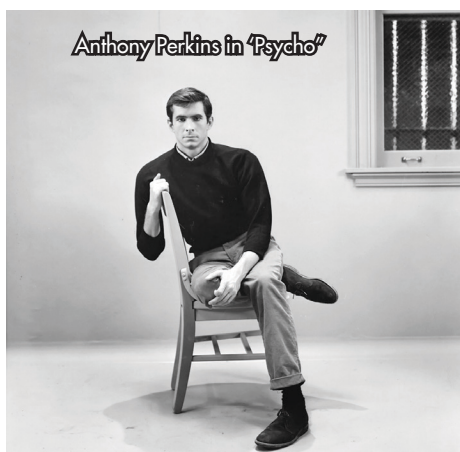

And — taking her creative approach, as always — Berg even shares her own, unique "mash-up" recipes throughout the series, melding common dishes like Caesar Salad and Roast Chicken, even crafting a Taco Meatball skillet.

Delving into the best tips, tricks and tools necessary for any cook, Mary Berg impresses in every episode of "Mary Makes it Easy," airing Sundays on Food Network.

BEST ALFRED HITCHCOCK MOVIES

"Saboteur" (1942): Basically a spy story, this fast-paced effort culminates in one of director Hitchcock's most memorable endings, putting heroic Robert Cummings and not-so-heroic Norman Lloyd atop the Statue of Liberty.

"Shadow of a Doubt" (1943): Joseph Cotten is wonderfully creepy as an apparent bon vivant suspected of murder by a young relative (Teresa Wright).

"Lifeboat" (1944): Co-written by novelist John Steinbeck, Hitchcock's excellent melodrama loads the title craft with survivors of a ship that was targeted and sunk by a U-boat ... with one of the U-boat's crew members also on the lifeboat.

"Strangers on a Train" (1951): Two travelers (Farley Granger, Robert Walker) make a pact to get rid of someone for the other person in a tale that's been retold in numerous variations.

"Rear Window" (1954): The production design is a star of this great thriller that keeps a light touch, as an apartment dweller (James Stewart) waylaid by a broken leg thinks he spies a neighbor (Raymond Burr) committing murder.

"The Trouble With Harry" (1955): Shirley MaLaine started her movie career with Hitchcock, who had tongue firmly in cheek in telling of the trouble posed to several Vermont residents by Harry, a corpse.

"The Man Who Knew Too Much" (1956): Doris Day's musical trademark, "Que Sera Sera," was a byproduct of her starring with Hitchcock returnee Stewart as a couple forced into foreign espionage in a remake of Hitchcock's own two-decades-earlier thriller. Turner Classic Movies shows both this version and Hitchcock's 1934 original on Saturday, Oct. 28.

"Vertigo" (1958): Obsession rarely has gotten as haunting a screen treatment as in this visually striking melodrama, with Stewart again the star as an acrophobic detective who falls under the spell of a friend's wife (Kim Novak) he's tailing.

"North by Northwest" (1959): A sensationally entertaining mix of adventure, humor and romance, this prolonged chase takes a businessman (Cary Grant again) from New York to Mount Rushmore, with James Mason the main villain and Eva Marie Saint a deceptive beauty.

"Psycho" (1960): Hitchcock's achievement with the chiller that made people wary of taking a shower - thanks to the fate of Norman Bates' (Anthony Perkins) motel guest (Janet Leigh) - is even more impressive in its capping of a three-year run of Hitchcock classics that couldn't be more different stylistically. Television's "Bates Motel" recently expanded on the specific premise here.

Q: It's good to see "All Rise" back on the air, but is this going to be the end of the show? – Mike Lang, via e-mail

‘All Rise’ is making its last stand

A: From all appearances, it is. That wasn’t completely unexpected, given that it took roughly a year for OWN to bring the show back for the second half of its third (and, ultimately, final) season – and that third year came as a reprieve for the law drama after CBS cancelled it following its first two rounds.

The series’ budget wasn’t the same at OWN as it was at CBS, and especially given the large ensemble cast (which has included Simone Missick, Wilson Bethel, Jessica Camacho and Mar Helgenberger), that had to be a factor in whether it would win another renewal. One hesitates to say “never,” but given the situation of “All Rise” itself plus the larger issues related to production and money matters in the age of the entertainment-industry strikes, it’s likely that “All Rise” has risen for the last time.

Q: All of the repeats of “The Golden Girls” that I see have Beatrice Arthur in them, but I thought she left the show early. Is that true? – Rachel Matthews, Charlotte, N.C.

A: No, but that impression might have been created by the fact that her fellow stars – Betty White, Rue McClanahan and Estelle Getty – elected to continue their roles in the sequel series “The Golden Palace,” which CBS aired for one year right after the original sitcom ended on NBC.

The final episode of “The Golden Girls” married off Arthur’s character Dorothy, and though she probably would have been factored in had Arthur decided to return, the follow-up went in a slightly different direction by making the remaining ladies the owners of a financially challenged Miami hotel. Also notable in the regular cast were Don Cheadle, prior to his movie stardom, as the manager of the hotel and Cheech Marin as one of the site’s chefs who also stayed with the place.
