St. Johns County enacts one-year moratorium on medical marijuana dispensaries

By Jon Blauvelt

The St. Johns County Board of County Commissioners unanimously passed a temporary moratorium on medical marijuana dispensaries last week.

The county approved the one-year delay to allow time for the state to implement legislation regulating medical marijuana sales, said county spokeswoman Sarah Hand.

Florida voters overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment in November that expands the medical use of marijuana for individuals with debilitating conditions. With the amendment enacted in January, the Florida Legislature has until July to create laws that regulate the location of medical marijuana sales. If no such laws are enacted, said Hand, the Department of Health (DOH) has until October to do the same. The county wants to wait until that process is complete before taking any action of its own.

The moratorium also provides the county with time to thoroughly review land use and zoning ordinances, Hand added, so local regulations can be implemented to prevent dispensaries from being established next to schools, playgrounds, daycare facilities, churches and other areas where kids are gathered.

Lynnette Horwath, program coordinator for PACT Prevention Coalition of St. Johns County, fully supports the moratorium. Her organization focuses on preventing and reducing underage substance abuse, and she said the state has a great deal of work ahead to roll out and implement the amendment. As a result, she says it's wise of the county to wait.

"It makes sense to delay these decisions until the DOH completes its implementation plans," said Horwath, "so we are not driving any decisions in the dark, not knowing the guidelines ahead of us."

Hand emphasized that the moratorium does not prevent people who have the legal right to purchase medical marijuana from doing so. It just delays the process of their purchasing it within the county.

Dr. Joseph Dorn, chief medical officer and co-founder of Medical Marijuana Treatment Centers (MMTC) of Florida, which opened a clinic in Ponte Vedra Beach in January, said the county's decision doesn't impact the clinic because it is solely a physician's office providing consultations.

"We have no connections at all with the dispensaries," he stressed. Dorn said his treatment center doesn't direct patients to individual dispensaries; instead, MMTC provides contact information for the organizations that oversee several dispensaries around the state, which Dorn said ultimately puts the onus on the patients to determine which option they want to pursue.

Dorn doesn't foresee his patients in St. Johns County having any trouble acquiring the medical marijuana product. He said the county's decision will simply force patients to go somewhere else where a moratorium is not in place. Dorn also noted that dispensing organizations around the state are now delivering via courier.

He did, however, call the moratorium and similar stays around the state "overkill," claiming that preexisting state laws already mandate where dispensaries can be located. Dorn also called the moratorium "hypocritical," since he said 71.3 percent of Floridians voted in favor of Amendment Two.

The medical marijuana moratorium does not impact the recently opened medical marijuana treatment center in Ponte Vedra since that clinic solely offers consultations.

St. Johns County has imposed a one-year moratorium on medical marijuana dispensaries.

"It's interesting that these municipalities and counties are saying our people want it, but on the other hand we don't want it here," said Dorn, who noted that the Ponte Vedra clinic is progressively growing each week.

Dorn is hopeful the moratorium will be temporary, but understands change like this takes time, noting that medical marijuana still carries a stigma today.

Dr. Jeremy Mirabile believes there's good reason for that stigma, however, and would like to see the moratorium extended indefinitely. The addiction specialist and medical director for Recovery Keys in St. Augustine and Jacksonville didn't think the idea of taking a vote on medicinal marijuana was a good idea in the first place, since he said medicinal treatments are typically run through the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) first for validation and scientific rigor. Mirabile said there's still uncertainty within the medical and scientific community regarding the exact constituents of marijuana, and until that's studied independently, he doesn't believe doctors should be recommending it to patients. He added that legalizing medical marijuana exposes more people to the chemical and allows the disease of addiction to blossom.

"I think it's an all-around bad idea," said Mirabile, who also acknowledged the voters' decision in November and medical marijuana's inevitable presence in Florida. "It's sort of like a train that's barreling down the rails, and it seems like there's no stopping it."

St. Johns County will host a medical marijuana workshop at 4 p.m. April 13 to discuss proposed zoning and permitting regulations for medical marijuana retail stores. The public is invited to attend the event at the St. Johns County Permit Center to provide feedback.

New school to open at former Accotink Academy site

Collage Day School is accepting applications for the new school slated to open in August on the Palm Valley campus of the former Accotink Academy By The Sea.

lum of academics, arts and practical experiences with the goal of engaging the students intellectually, emotionally and physically.”

In April 2016, Keystone announced plans to purchase Accotink Academy By The Sea and open Keystone By The Sea, keeping the Accotink staff on board to serve children ages three months to 8 years old. Keystone also planned to move its Keystone Child Development Center from its existing Southside location to the new campus.

Approximately six weeks later, however, Keystone officials confirmed the deal had fallen through as the parties could not reach an agreement over the sale of the property. Accotink Academy By the Sea subsequently closed at the end of the 2016 school year.

Keystone officials said they were not able to discuss the details of the recent transaction involving the sale of the former Accotink Academy. Director of Marketing and Communications Karen Rieley noted, however, that Keystone’s plans for the new school have changed since last year.

“Since then, we have expanded our educational philosophy to include educating all children from 3 months old through fifth grade and are now opening a brand new school called Collage Day School,” Rieley said. “We will continue to serve children with special needs at our Southside location, which includes Mosaic Day School and Mainspring Academy.”

Keystone also plans to open a Palm Valley clinic that will offer a range of health and wellness services.

“We have spent years developing an approach that is thoughtful and balanced,” Falwell said. “It is also developmentally appropriate and based on the best practices in the education field. We are inspired by a variety of philosophies and approaches, which we blend together into a program that reflects our commitment to helping children lay the best possible social, emotional, physical and cognitive foundations.”

Rieley said the new school’s name refers to the process of transforming existing materials into a work of art.

“Collage art takes an open mind and willingness to explore,” she said. “The beauty of collage art is that each piece is unique and there is no way of making a mistake. We will be shaping young minds and bodies to create a work of art.”

Nearly a year after its planned purchase of Accotink Academy By the Sea fell through, Keystone Child Development Center is moving forward with a new plan to open a day school for infants through grade 5 at the former Accotink site in Palm Valley.

Collage Day School is currently accepting applications for the 2017-18 school year at the former Accotink campus located at 171

Canal Blvd. Plans call for classes to start Thursday, Aug. 10, with the school following the St. Johns County public school calendar.

According to CEO and Founder Katie Falwell, Ph.D., the school will provide a personalized curriculum that encourages creative thinking.

“We are dedicated to educating the whole child – head, heart and hands,” Falwell said. “We do this through a well-balanced curricu-

Jim Sheils

By Jennifer Logue

What brought you to Ponte Vedra Beach?

Along with Family Board Meetings, my business partner and I have run a real estate investment company for almost 20 years. In 2004, while still based in California, we began researching the growth patterns of Northeast Florida and realized there was a ton of potential here. We fell in love with the area on our first visit. It wasn't just the business opportunities; the lifestyle was tremendous. It was an easy move to make. Since then, we've had a lot of families and friends move to the area as well.

What is Family Board Meetings and how does it work?

Family Board Meetings is a support network of entrepreneur families that want to be successful not only in business but in their home life as well. Our mission is to create relationships between entrepreneurs and their children that are deeper and more meaningful than they ever thought possible. We do this by sharing proven strategies and hosting specialized events, like our retreats here in Ponte Vedra. We've had families from all over the U.S. and Canada, Europe, even Australia join us here at the Sawgrass Marriott to participate. Experiential education and learning is critical in helping a child realize their best future and our events create the space to make this happen.

We believe a child's confidence in life comes from a powerful mindset that needs to be tested, nurtured and guided by a loving parent. We believe financial empowerment is taught and supported through experiential education and hands on learning from a young age. And we believe that service and contribution to the family and community build children who have a greater appreciation for life and a compassion for others.

What types of activities occur at a Family Board Meeting retreat?

We are big fans of experiential education. It gets everyone laughing and allows people to drop their guard (both parents and young people). When hosting here in Ponte Vedra, we aim to soak in the natural beauty of the area. We might be hiking in Guana, at the beach learning to surf, boogie board or paddle board – or even playing Giant Jenga back at the Sawgrass Marriott. We have a style of teaching that involves less lectures and more round table discussions. Our goal is to get communication going on a ton of different subjects and we want the younger crowd to have the opportunity to lead us.

How did you come to found Family Board Meetings?

My business partner, Brian Scrone, and I saw a great need to help support that work/life balance that so many busy entrepreneurs and professionals have a hard time maintaining. We live in a time when the power of a parent in shaping their child's most abundant and happy future has never been more important – and the need to do so is unprecedented. Family Board Meetings started as something small among friends and grew into what it is today. We believe no one should ever live as a stranger to their family just to achieve success in their career. It is possible to have the best of both worlds. A few simple rhythms and shared lessons can make a huge difference.

Your next event – to be held in Utah – is a departure from your previous beach-based retreats. What motivated you to plan an event out west?

We've had a lot of people on the West Coast wanting to get involved in our retreats so for ease of access, we decided to team up with The Summit Group and host a retreat at Powder Mountain, Utah this June. We're big fans of the beach, but we also appreciate a beautiful mountain setting once in a while. With that said, Ponte Vedra will always be home base for us.

Are there any charitable groups or activities with which you're involved?

Yes, we've supported The Homes of Hope Organization, which build houses in Mexico. Locally, we've supported The St. Augustine Public Montessori School, which is the only charter school in St Johns County. We helped create The Anthony Strong Project, which provided a local family with a much-needed wheelchair-accessible van. We are also involved with many other local charity groups like Silent Surfers, Wounded Warriors, Never Quit, Life Rolls On and more. These groups use the ocean and outdoors to help improve people's lives. Best of all, they allow our children to be actively involved in their events. It's great to watch the kids shine while volunteering. It instantly removes the myth that kids and teens are inherently selfish. We've found the exact opposite to be true. We have found no better way to instill values in our children than to get them actively involved in service and contribution activities like these.

What is your favorite part of living on the First Coast?

Growing up in the New Jersey, I felt trapped inside half my life. Now I get to enjoy the ocean and other outdoor activities with my family and friends all year long. We also love the camaraderie and sense of community we've built here. Our family is never short on fun activities and great people to spend time with.

Bolles students breathe life into figures of history with 'live wax museum'

Second grade Bolles students recently brought history to life with the school's annual live wax museum performance at the Bolles Lower School Ponte Vedra Beach Campus.

The students' March 15 performance marked the culmination of weeks of biographical research on famous historical figures. Since early January, students had been extensively studying historical figures they selected to learn more about, with findings including childhood interests and notable achievements. They then painted portraits of their subjects in art class, and considered how they might portray that figure on stage by writing scripts and developing costumes and props.

That work finally came to life with a colorful and informative live wax museum show directed by music teacher Stacey Posick. Characters included Sacagawea, Martin Luther King, Jr. and Steve Jobs. A total of 28 students participated in the show.

Rotary Club hosts annual

'PonteVedraville' event honors Donna Deegan as 2017 'Rock of the Community'

By Jennifer Logue

Hawaiian shirts, flip flops and parrot hats were the order of the day last weekend, when the Rotary Club of Ponte Vedra Beach brought a bit of Jimmy Buffett to the First Coast with its annual Mineral City Celebration.

An estimated 500 people set their watches to five o'clock and flocked to the Ponte Vedra Concert Hall, which had been transformed into "PonteVedraville," complete with tropical décor, stilt walkers, flame dancers, a steel drum band and more. Guests enjoyed margaritas and Caribbean cuisine while dancing to the beat of the Island Paradise Band. Attendees also had an opportunity to bid on scores of both silent and live auction items, with Channel 4 news anchor Kent Justice serving as the evening's emcee and auctioneer. Winner of the event's "Changes in Latitudes" trip auction, meanwhile, was John Drake, who won an exotic vacation to his choice of Rome, Hawaii, Tuscany or Ireland.

Rock of the Community Award

A special highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Rotary Club's 2017 "Rock of the Community Award" to breast cancer survivor Donna Deegan. The former journalist and founder of The Donna Foundation accepted the award from Rotary Club President Michael Bruce and event chair Billy Wagner, and expressed her gratitude to those in attendance for their support for her foundation's efforts to aid other women battling breast cancer.

"I thank you from the bottom of my heart," said Deegan, who attended the event with her husband, First Coast News meteorologist Tim Deegan. "I love every one of you. We wouldn't be able to do what we do without all of you."

Deegan noted that her foundation has joined with the City of Jacksonville Beach to launch a "Brick by Brick" program, where residents can purchase commemorative bricks with proceeds benefiting breast cancer research and treatment. Information on the brick program is available at www.breastcancermarathon.com.

In addition to The Donna Foundation, proceeds from the Rotary Club's Mineral City Celebration will benefit the Beaches Dial-a-Ride program and numerous other Beaches area charities.

GATE Foundation Charity Golf Tournament benefits The Arc Jacksonville Village

The GATE Foundation recently presented The Arc Jacksonville Village with a check for $90,000 from the annual GATE Foundation Charity Golf Tournament, held in October 2016 despite several postponements due to Hurricane Matthew. Since the tournament's inception, GATE has donated more than $1 million to charitable organizations.

"We are pleased to have partnered with such a praiseworthy organization," said Kathy Brady, executive director of The GATE Foundation. "The impact of The Arc Jacksonville Village on the lives of these individuals is incredible. We can't thank our registrants enough for being committed to making their donations even when the tournament was cancelled due to Hurricane Matthew."

ARC Jacksonville President and CEO Jim Whittaker added, "This generous gift will directly support the 121 residents living independently at The Arc Jacksonville Village. By hosting this annual charity golf tournament, The GATE Foundation is changing countless lives in our community."

Created at the request of young adults and their families for a safe environment where individuals in needs of lifestyle support count independently establish a home, The Village is an apartment-style neighborhood housing 121 adults with disabilities aged 18 and older. Since its inception, it has become a national model for custom design to promote socializing and sharing among residents in addition to engagement with the surrounding community.

Residents live among peers and choose the educational, recreational and employment opportunities they wish to pursue in greater Jacksonville. The Village opened in May of 2016, and was fully leased by August.

"The Arc Jacksonville has helped me to become more confident in my ability to do more things for myself," said Jermaine, an Arc Village resident. "Living on my own makes me feel free to make my own choices."

The Arc Jacksonville advocates for and serves community members with diagnoses including Down syndrome, autism, Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders, cerebral palsy and other conditions of developmental delay.

Arc promotes and actively supports the full inclusion and participation in the community throughout their lifetimes of all persons without regard to diagnosis of a disability.

Cypress Village embraces smart home technology

When resident Bess Turk first moved into her home in Cypress Village, her life suddenly changed.

Several years prior, Turk began losing her sight due to macular degeneration. It was a difficult adjustment, causing Turk to miss appointments and forget her daily activities. But the scalable smart technology Cypress Village provides for seniors has made it possible for her to work around the effects of the degeneration.

That technology is packaged in Amazon Echo, a voice-controlled smart home system Turk had installed in August of 2016. The system, which answers to the name "Alexa," gives Turk and other seniors the ability to request reminders and enable changes around their homes, increasing accessibility to tasks that might ordinarily be difficult.

"Now I can listen to music, turn lights on and off, change the thermostat, make a shopping list ... and so much more, all with voice commands," said Turk, who worked with Cypress Village's iPad instructor Michael Schmitt to design a system for her needs. "It has changed my life. I was missing appointments and forgetting my everyday activities – now, whenever I think of what I need to remember, I simply request Alexa to set my alarm, calendar, shopping list and daily activities. She will read it back to me anytime I ask ... all these little treats have made a huge difference in my life."

Cypress Village's scalable smart technology is meant to make life easier in more ways than one, according to Director of Marketing and Sales Lisa Adams. The technology is available in apartments and houses and can be tailored to each resident's individual needs. It can also include wellness monitoring, which can observe sleep cycles, medical consumption and dietary changes to give families and caregivers an extra tool for care and peace of mind.

"We are meeting the needs of seniors as they enter into the CCRC market," Adams said. "These technologies make life easier ... and play a role in how seniors can age in place."

Homeowners Jim and Judy Jandreau worked with Sound Installation and Design, Inc. to develop a voice-activated smart home of their own. The traditional switches and controls are connected to their secure WiFi and can be used for lights, ceiling fans, showers, thermostats and blinds. They've also installed a doorbell that allows them to see who is at their front door using their smart phones.

Cypress Village is currently designing a smart model apartment to perform live demonstrations of this technology that will be open to anyone interested in seeing how a smart home can make life more accessible.

Underwood's hosts top crystal designer

One of the world's foremost crystal designers visited Ponte Vedra Beach last week, when Underwood's Jewelers hosted a cocktail reception for William Yeoward.

A native of the United Kingdom, Yeoward mingled with Underwood's customers, showcased some of his finest work and signed purchased pieces with his crystal pen. The designer's collection features more than 1,000 pieces of crystal, including bowls, glasses, bottles, vases and jars. The collection's pieces are entirely handmade and inspired by 18th and 19th century antiques from England and Ireland.

In addition to viewing the crystal collection, guests enjoyed cocktails, hors d'oeuvres and sweets from JJ's Bistro and Le Macaron.

Ding, ding, ding can be bad, bad, bad!

Harry Pappas
Columnist

By Harry Pappas

Jay Mooreland, author of one of my favorite go-to websites, underscores my feelings that just about everything that is written about the short-term future direction of the stock market by self-proclaimed experts makes me want to smear myself with honey and jump into a nest of fire ants.

Allow me to explain. Mooreland said in his July 6, 2016, post, "We are bombarded every day with people making predictions regarding the stock market and some of them are right. That is the nature of probability. Do something enough times and occasionally the unexpected or extraordinary will happen. The problem is, we tend to hear only about the 'winners.' The same thing happens in casinos."

The author continues, "You walk through a casino floor, and you hear Ding Ding Ding Ding. Your mind is thinking, 'Wow, there are a lot of winners. I better get in on this.' What noise does a slot machine make when it loses, which occurs the majority of the time? Nothing, just like the expert prediction that was wrong again. We don't notice because we don't hear it."

We do not need gypsies with crystal balls, soothsayers wearing wizard hats, palm readers, and stock market pundits with sketchy records of accomplishment providing us investment advice. It cannot be said enough: The best advice, for most people, is boring and dull, so here is a nudge.

- Buy quality
- Diversify your portfolio
- Invest for the long term (three to five years minimum)
- Hire the professionals
- Implement a cost-efficient investment strategy
- Keep your finger off the panic button!

In the final analysis, I have no idea of the short-term direction of the stock market, and no one else does either. What happens in the short run is often just "noise" to distract us from our long-term game plan. Don't take the bait! Stay the course, as the stock market has proven consistently that it moves higher over time. Of course, gut-wrenching declines will happen, which is why you should pay particular attention to the item mentioned above (#6).

During the past several years, the stock market has underscored the notion that bull markets tend to "climb a wall of worry." In other words, the stock market generally moves higher in the face of "headline fatigue," which is excessive exposure to negative news from the media. The commentators continue to warn us about everything that could go wrong with the economy and stock market. The songs of doom and gloom bombard us, but in spite of the flood of undesirable broadcasts, stock prices have been moving consistently higher, as they climb the wall of worry, to many people's disbelief. Remember to keep your itchy finger off the trigger!

Health Partners LLC Founder Lynn Kettell-Slifer discusses a supplement with office manager Stephanie Bedsaul.

New functional medicine practice offers relationship-focused medical option

By Jon Blauvelt

A new functional medicine practice has recently opened in Ponte Vedra Beach and is now accepting appointments for consultations.

Located at 100 Executive Way across from PVPV-Rawlings Elementary School, Health Partners LLC provides area residents with a “relationship-focused” option that staff members say bridges the gap between traditional, prescription-based primary care and alternative treatment.

“We go upstream from where symptoms are, and we do more than just treat symptoms,” said Founder Lynn Kettell-Slifer, a family nurse practitioner with experience in preventative care, healthcare for the uninsured, medical missions and hospital oncology.

As explained on the practice’s website, functional medicine uses a systems-oriented method to address the underlying causes of disease by engaging both the patient and practitioner in a therapeutic partnership – hence the company name, Health Partners.

This is where Kettell-Slifer said functional medicine distinguishes itself from primary care practices. Insurance companies, she said, dictate much of the care that is delivered by primary care providers, often resulting in brief appointments where physicians simply prescribe medications to treat patients’ symptoms. As a result, Kettell-Slifer said, the current healthcare environment has become overly pharmaceutical-based and isn’t helping to solve patients’ problems.

“We’re seeing that prescriptions will treat a symptom and may be a band aid, but it really doesn’t fix you,” she said. “That’s where functional medicine comes in.”

Kettell-Slifer said Health Partners works diligently to develop relationships with its patients to optimize their health. The practice emphasizes the importance of investing time with patients to establish the root cause of their respective issues and help them return to a state of health. In addition to functional medicine, the practice provides weight management services, health coaching and nutritional counseling.

According to Kettell-Slifer, the majority of the practice’s patients are middle-aged people experiencing chronic disease, such as cancer, diabetes, weight issues, fatigue and inflammation. She said many of them have already visited traditional doctors and taken several prescription medications. But unfortunately, she added, they’re not feeling better, and they have decided they want to take control of their healthcare. In addition, she noted that the practice also sees very healthy patients who are trying to maintain their health by identifying potential vulnerabilities in their lives.

Initial consultations, which cost $150, last an hour and a half and include a detailed clinical and lifestyle assessment. The examination dives deep into all aspects of the patient’s makeup, including nutrition, sleep and relaxation, exercise and movement, stress, relationships, mental disposition and spiritual health. If necessary, the consultation also includes targeted diagnostic testing for an additional cost. Patients leave with a personalized evaluation and treatment plan based on their specific needs.

Kettell-Slifer said follow-up appointments last 30 to 45 minutes, with costs for additional care depending on the severity of the patient’s condition.

Health Partners does not take insurance, said Kettell-Slifer, because it would require additional staff to deal with the health care companies, which would increase the cost of care. More importantly, she noted that insurance companies would dictate the type of care her practice could provide, as they do with primary care practices. That wouldn’t allow the practice to invest the necessary time with their patients to establish the true source of their problems, she said.

Kettell-Slifer opened Health Partners in early March with her business partner Dr. Suzanne Kersbergen, an osteopath certified in obesity medicine. The practice’s team also includes office manager Stephanie Bedsaul.

“That’s our small group trying to make a difference in people’s health here in Ponte Vedra,” she said. “We are really passionate about the health of our patients. This is about working together with the patients to optimize their health in a true partnership.”

Nease softball loses to Creekside in heartbreaker, then shuts out Matanzas

By Jon Blauvelt

Nease softball split its two games last week, losing to Creekside on Thursday and then defeating Matanzas on Friday.

Heading into the end of the Creekside game, Nease was in control of its own destiny, leading the Knights 3-1 in the top of the seventh inning. A string of five straight runs from Creekside, however, put the Knights over the top and sent them home with a last-minute 6-3 victory. Panthers coach Britney Lee didn't allow the come-from-behind win to rattle her.

"We're playing Nease softball, and that's what we're going to continue to play," she said following the loss. "They strung a few together there at the end. We're going to be on the other side of that one day."

Panthers Junior Samantha Harmon finished the game with two RBIs and a hit, while junior Bailey Pattison added an RBI and three hits. Pattison pitched a gem of a game through the first six innings, only allowing one run; yet, she gave up the five runs in the seventh that boosted Creekside to its win.

"She pitched well the whole game," said Lee. "They strung a few together at the end. I don't think she was tired."

Pattison and the Panthers returned to action the following day with gusto and beat Matanzas, 6-0. Pattison pitched all seven innings of the shutout, allowing just three hits and striking out three batters. The junior pitcher also added an RBI and two hits on the offensive side of the ball.

Junior Courtney Furst had a big night for the Panthers with three RBIs and a hit. Freshman Grace Kim and junior Samantha Harmon accounted for the team's remaining RBIs.

Nease continues to hover around .500. The Panthers played Bartram Trail earlier this week and will match up with rival St. Augustine at home tonight at 7 p.m.

Shark stickmen roll over Yellow Jackets

By Jerry Norton

Special to the Recorder

The Ponte Vedra High School boys' lacrosse team is cruising on a path to an historic end – a state championship, perhaps? But for an unaccountable loss to Jupiter, the Sharks have not met a team they couldn't beat. They added St. Augustine to their list of victims with a 16-5 win over the Jackets last week at the Shark Tank.

Ponte Vedra scored first on a goal by Clay Welch two minutes in and Matt Keeler put the Sharks up by a pair a short time later. Then for the better part of the first quarter the visitors had the advantage and even led briefly 3-2 with a minute left in the quarter.

Any hopes the visitors had of pulling off an upset quickly vanished under a barrage of six Shark goals. Walker Azzaro pulled Ponte Vedra even as the first quarter ended. Then Reid Smith, Welch, Jack Burke, CD James and Keeler each scored to put Ponte Vedra up 8-3 at the break.

Things didn't get any better for the Jackets in the second half. Goals by Azzaro, two more by Burke and one by Andrew O'Dare pushed the Shark advantage to 12-4. Then Smith took matters into his own hands scoring four fourth-quarter goals.

Sharks blank Menendez

By Jerry Norton

Special to the Recorder

Ponte Vedra scored twice in the first inning thanks to big base hits by Eric Aleman and Jacob Young and that would be all the runs the Sharks would need Thursday evening at home against Pedro Menendez. Meanwhile, lefty junior pitcher Kevin Faulkner pitched five scoreless innings in which he allowed just a single base hit to earn the win.

The Sharks erupted for three more runs in the second on base hits by Tommy Barnhorst, Mike Zenni, Aleman and Jack Hahnemann. They added four more in the fifth, with Quinton Brehm's towering home run to left the big blow. Aleman had a three-for-three night, while Young collected two hits in three trips and Barnhorst finished with two hits and two RBI in three trips.

Faulkner's pinpoint control kept the Falcon bats from making good contact and had the benefit of impeccable fielding behind him.

On Friday, Ponte Vedra completed the home and home set against Menendez with a 9-3 win. Ponte Vedra scored five runs in the seventh inning to ensure the victory.

The Sharks improved to 8-4 over all and are 4-0 in district play. They will host St. Joseph Academy on Thursday, March 30.

Lady Sharks explode for 20 runs Against Pedro Menendez

By Jerry Norton

Special to the Recorder

While sophomore pitcher Michelle Holder was busy pitching a no-hitter, she and her teammates were busy pounding out 14 hits and scoring 20 runs against district foe Pedro Menendez. Ponte Vedra scored their runs in the first four innings to beat the Falcons 20-0.

Shortstop Michelle Leone led the Sharks at the plate with a four-for-four night. Third baseman Bailey Wagoner was three for four, Holder two for three and designated hitter Kiley Hennessey also finished with two hits in three trips. The Sharks collected three extra base hits in the massacre including doubles by Holder and Hennessey and a triple by Scotland David.

Pitcher Holder had four runs driven and was the RBI leader for Ponte Vedra followed by Wagoner with three, catcher Taylor Bradshaw, and Leone and Quinlan Richmond with two each. The Falcons didn't help themselves very much by making five errors in four innings.

With the win, Ponte Vedra improves to 8-4 overall and stands at 2-1 in the district.

#21 Andrew O'Dare of Ponte Vedra brings the ball up field with two Yellow Jackets in pursuit.

Lacrosse

Prior to the St. Augustine game, the Sharks made short road trips to Gulliver Prep and Lake Howell to play Mt. Vista, a team from Colorado. Ponte Vedra handled Gulliver 18-6 thanks to five goals by Smith; four by Welch; two each by James, Burke, Azzaro and Prince; and a single by Keeler.

The game against Mt. Vista proved a challenge for the Sharks, who needed to come from down 7-4 to earn an 8-7 victory. Shark scorers included Welch with four, Smith with three and Dylan Hess with one.

Over the weekend, Ponte Veda traveled to South Carolina for games against Wando and Charlotte Catholic. Wando fell to the Sharks 13-10 on three goals by Smith and Keeler, two by Hess two by Welch and singles by Burke, O'Dare and James.

Charlotte lost to the Sharks 20-8, with Welch leading the way with seven goals. Smith tallied four, Burke three and Hess, O'Dare and Keeler added two each.

The Scoop on Pap Smears - Ingrid A. Carlson, MD

Pap smears can identify problems with the cervix before they develop into cancer. Having them done yearly was based more on "tradition" than on medical need and several years ago, a panel of nationally and internationally known experts convened to determine how often they need to be done to prevent cervical cancer. It was determined that some women over 65 without an abnormal pap in the previous 10 years could discontinue pap smears.

More recent articles suggest that some women may be at risk without a pap. Although the rate of cervical cancer is still low, 10-19% of new cervical cancer cases are in women over age 65. The median age for vaginal cancer is 67. Because of this, although it is outside of the current guidelines, I recommend erring on the side of caution and doing pap smears every 2-5 years, even after a hysterectomy. My recommendation to women for any type of cancer screening is that you should stop screening for cancer when you are at a point, either due to age or illness, that you would not do anything if you found out that you had cancer. Until that point, cancer screening may continue to extend your life.

The art of preservation

artist Kathy Stark uses paintings to promote, preserve the city's parks

By Jasmine Marshall

When artist Kathy Stark first decided to set up a One Spark booth downtown in 2013, she did so with one goal in mind: She would use the crowd-funding festival as a self-imposed deadline to create a body of work she could show potential supporters.

But that simple goal would soon turn lofty as Stark considered just what she'd been doing over the course of the few years leading to that moment. Her subject matter had taken a decidedly nature-oriented turn as the artist looked increasingly to the city's natural monuments for inspiration. The idea of creating a book then struck naturally. Stark's new goal would be to compile a series of sketchbook journal entries and paintings to blend art and education.

Four years later, Stark's work has culminated into a campaign. She released her book, "The Wilderness of North Florida's Parks," on Feb. 23, coinciding with her exhibition launch as artist-in-residence at Jacksonville's Museum of Science and History (MOSH). Her series of large-scale watercolor paintings and sketches will adorn the walls of the museum until September, but Stark is adamant about creating an exhibition that travels with a meaningful message.

"The festival had motivated me to keep building content right up until last the summer, when I really worked hard on filling the book," she said. "It's a nice message – it's saying 'here's all these parks around Jacksonville, now pay attention to the concerns of our environment.' We need to preserve these lands and speak up for our state, not pave it over."

More than just a picture book, "The Wilderness of North Florida's Parks" is Stark's heartfelt bid to raise awareness of the natural wonders on the First Coast. It includes her own journal entries logged in park preserves, conservation areas and forests within an hour's drive of Downtown Jacksonville. Sites like Guana, Nocatee's Greenway Trails and Cradle Creek Preserve are among the 19 illustrations in the book, a complete resource of all 60 parks in Jacksonville and its surrounding area. With the book's publication and exhibit, she ultimately hopes to increase awareness of the parks' existence and encourage people to preserve them.

"It took a lot of research to even find a lot of these places," the artist recalled. "I illustrated a map and included it in the book with Downtown Jacksonville at the center to ... localize the places in the book. People look at that map and say to me, 'I didn't even know these places existed.' So I hope it can act as a one-stop resource for people who want to know more about our nature and its history."

Stark's efforts have seen her establishing a formal relationship with Timucuan Parks Foundation, a nonprofit dedicated to preserving and promoting Timucuan Parks that Stark had long supported. She now acts as the foundation's first fine artist in its newly launched "Artists for the Parks" series. Corporate partner Merrill Lynch, which funded the printing of her book and her exhibit at MOSH, will donate more than 300 hardback copies of "The Wilderness of North Florida's Parks" to libraries throughout the four counties (Duval, St. Johns, Clay and Nassau) that are included in the book. In the future, she expects to see her exhibit in the Thrasher-Horne Center for the Arts and the Cultural Center at Ponte Vedra Beach. Her book can be found at North Guana Outpost and at her website, www.kathystark.com.

Preservation

kathystark.com.

In the meantime, as she promotes her book and exhibit, the artist wants to inspire the community at large to experience the city's expansive park systems – a goal that became increasingly important to her as she traveled all 60 parks by foot, bike, canoe and kayak.

"If people don't know about these parks, they won't get any support," she said. "If you don't grow that awareness, people won't know to protect them. I want to build that interest, get people away from their phones and laptops and get them outside again."

"I hope people walk (into my exhibit) and that something will catch their eye so that they'll be interested in investigating it further," Stark continued. "Maybe they'll be inspired to nurture their own creativity in a way that allows them to appreciate

Kathy Stark's MOSH exhibit will be on display until September, extended from its original end-date of May 29. MOSH is located at 1025 Museum Circle in Jacksonville. For more information, visit www.themosh.org.

Country Western Swing group Asleep at the Wheel to play Ponte Vedra Concert Hall May 25

Tickets are now on sale for the Country Western swing act Asleep at the Wheel, which will perform at the Ponte Vedra Concert Hall Thursday, May 25.

Now in its 46th year, the longtime act has been traveling the country for decades, bringing American roots music to new generations.

"It's been an amazing ride," front man Ray Benson said. "But rest assured, there are still so many exciting projects in the works. The Wheel keeps rolling!"

In addition to Benson, the group was founded by Floyd Domino, Lucky Oceans, Leroy Preston, Chris O'Connell and Gene Dobkin. In 1970, the group landed a gig opening for Alice Cooper and Hot Tuna in Washington, DC. A year later, they were coaxed into moving to California by Commander Cody, leader of Commander Cody & His Lost Planet Airmen. But the band's big break came when Van Morrison mentioned them in an interview with Rolling Stone.

"There's some relatively unknown group around that I really dig," Morrison told the magazine. "Asleep at the Wheel plays great country music." That mention made record labels sit up and take notice.

Since then, the band has amassed a number of awards, including "Touring Band of the Year" (CMAs, 1976) and "Lifetime Achievement in Performance" (Americana Music Awards 2009). The group has also dominated the Grammy's "Country Instrumental" category over the years.

Throughout its four decades, the Wheel has covered new musical territory, picking up a few new passengers along the way. In 2016, the group added a fresh look and sound with the additions of Katie Shore on fiddle and vocals, Dennis Ludiker (fiddle, mandolin) and Connor Forsyth on keyboard and vocals.

Tickets for Asleep at the Wheel are available at the Ponte Vedra Concert Hall and St. Augustine Amphitheatre box offices, ticketmaster.com, all Ticketmaster outlets and by phone at (800) 745-3000.

Del Webb hosts writer's conference

Held at Del Webb's Anastasia Clubhouse, the conference was a program of the International Women's Writing Guild. Instructor Judy Huges presented "Making More of Memoir: Tools for Drawing Readers to and into Your Nonfiction Writing," while instructor Kelly DuMar presented "Writing Truth and Beauty: Using Your Personal Photos for Creative Writing in Poetry and Prose."

Participants also had an opportunity take part in open readings of their work.

First Coast Opera presents double bill of courtroom comedies

The Big Bad Wolf finally faced justice last week, when First Coast Opera presented an original composition that put the fairy tale villain on trial for his notorious crimes.

“The Trial of B. B. Wolfe” was presented March 16 and 18 at St. Augustine’s Ancient City Baptist Church. Written by First Coast Opera Director Curtis Tucker and collaborator Nelson Sheeley, the family-friendly opera was supported by a $10,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

In keeping with the courtroom theme, the opera was presented as part of a double bill featuring Gilbert and Sullivan’s comedy, “Trial by Jury.”

Northeast Florida Conservatory Theatre to present 'Hello, Dolly!'

As Bette Midler returns to Broadway in the title role of "Hello, Dolly!," First Coast residents will have a chance to see a local production of the award-winning musical.

Northeast Florida Conservatory Theatre will present its production of "Hello, Dolly!" April 21-23 and 28-30 at the conservatory, located at 1363 San Jose Blvd., Building 200 in Jacksonville. Conservatory voice teacher Regina Torres will star in the production as Mrs. Dolly Levi. A veteran of many musical performances in Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Torres was most recently seen as Ursula in "The Little Mermaid" at Theatre Jacksonville.

Mark Snitzer will portray Horace Vandergelder, the cranky "half-millionaire" from Yonkers, New York on whom matchmaker Dolly sets her sights. A native of Buffalo, New York, Snitzer appeared as Tevye in NFC Theatre's first production, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Founded by Executive Director Richard A. Dickson, the nonprofit conservatory offers programs for band, orchestra, theatre and art, along with free music lessons for children in need as part of Laura's Friends.

Tickets are $20 for "Hello, Dolly!" which will feature live orchestra music. Tickets can be purchased at www.showtix.now or by calling (904) 374-8639. Free parking is available.

Apex Theatre Studio to present 'The Ultimate 80s Dance Party'

Apex Theatre Studio will kick off its Summer Theatre Series with a trip back to the 1980s, when the theatre troupe presents "The Ultimate 80s Dance Party."

To be presented Saturday, June 10 at 8 p.m., the show will feature a variety of 1980s pop and soul favorites. In addition to a live disc jockey, the evening will feature retro-themed dance lessons and a flash mob sure to ignite memories of moussed hair, ripped Flashdance t-shirts and soundtracks from such popular '80s films as "St. Elmo's Fire," "The Breakfast Club," "Say Anything" and "Sixteen Candles."

"We were looking for an event that would allow us to throw open the doors of the space and welcome folks in to connect, laugh and groove," said Ian Mairs, managing director of Apex Theatre Studio. "At Apex, we are in the business of enabling young artists to hone their craft and express themselves. Dancing allows everyone the opportunity to let loose and play."

Ponte Vedra Concert Hall Director Ryan Murphy added, "There is a considerable legion of people whose alter ego dwells in John Hughesian existence. Whether you fancied punk, rap or Madonna, we will cover it musically over the course of the evening, with a great deal of fun."

Guests are encouraged to don clothes which reflect the sparkle, glitz and humor of the era.

"Torn jeans, fishnets, gloves and denim are all welcome," Apex board member Amy Wilson said.

Now in its fourth year, the Apex Summer Theatre Series will feature the Broadway musical "The Secret Garden," a 90-minute version of William Shakespeare's "As You Like It" (set in old Ponte Vedra) and the '70s favorite, "Godspell."

Tickets for "The Ultimate 80s Dance Party" are on sale now at the Ponte Vedra Concert Hall and St. Augustine Amphitheatre box offices, ticketmaster.com, all Ticketmaster outlets and by phone at (800) 745-3000.

Local author to discuss book on Nazi hunters at Temple Bet Yam of St. Augustine

Award winning author, journalist and St. Augustine resident Andrew Nagorski will discuss his latest book, "The Nazi Hunters," in a free presentation to be held April 23 at 2 p.m. at Temple Bet Yam in St. Augustine.

Nagorski's book reveals the experiences of a number of key figures in the decades-long battle to bring Nazi war criminals to justice, including the young American prosecutors at the Nuremberg trials; a Polish investigating judge who handled the case of an Auschwitz commandant; Germany's judge and prosecutor who repeatedly forced his countrymen to confront their country's record of mass murder; the Mossad agent who led the Israeli team that captured Adolf Eichmann; and the head of the U.S. Justice Department's Office of Special Investigations, who belatedly sought to expel war criminals living quietly in the United States.

Nagorski's discussion will focus on the archival research and numerous interviews he conducted for the book, which is available online. Hard copies will be available for a book signing at the presentation.

Temple Bet Yam is asking for interested people to RSVP by April 14 via phone at (904) 819-1875 or email at TempleBetYam@gmail.com.

The former Newsweek bureau chief in a number of European capitals, Nagorski is also the author of "Hitlerland: American Eyewitnesses to the Nazi Rise to Power."
